Move Made For Settlement of National Guard Row

ADJUTANT GENERAL AND 12 OPPONENTS WILL MEET TODAY

Effort Will Be Made in
Parley With Hardman
To Find Amicable Solution to Controversy.

OFFICERS INVOLVED GATHER IN MACON

Conference Today Is Outcome of Meeting in Middle Georgia City—Letter
Sent to Parker.

Prospects for an amicable settlement of the Georgia National Guard controversy developed Thursday when Governor L. G. Hardman announced that he had agreed to hold a conference in his office at 10 o'clock this morning with Adjutant-General Homer C. Parker and 12 officers of the guard who are involved in the matter. This conference, it was understood, was arranged after the commander-in-chief of the national guard, after the conference sent a letter to 12 officers asking them to tender their resignations. When one of the officers involved, Major Usher T. Winslet, of Macon, issued a statement in which he declined to resign, Adjutant-General Parker issued an order which was approved by the governor calling a court-martial for June 3 at Savannah. The court-martial was ordered to try "persons who may be brought before it," according to General Parker.

The next move in the controversy came Thursday when some of the officers involved held a conference at Macon. It is understood that the officers agreed at this meeting to ask the governor for a conference of all the persons concerned in the matter. This conference the governor agreed to hold and announced Thursday afternoon that it would be held at his office Friday morning with Adjutant-General Parker present as well as the officers in question.

Letter to Governor.
It was learned that the group of officers had decided to send the governor a letter, through the adjutant-general, in which they acknowledged receipt of the requests for their resignations and declaring themselves at loss to understand why the governor should seek these resignations. General Parker Thursday night stated that he had received the letter from the officers, but declined to divulge its contents. "That is a military matter," he said, "and I can see no good in making it public. The governor has called the conference for Friday morning and I feel that until

TEXAS AIRPLANE NEARING RECORD

Endurance Fliers Drone On as Atlantic Hop Aviators Wait for Favorable Weather.

Fort Worth, Texas, May 24.—(AP)—The civilian endurance plane Fort Worth, with more than 100 hours of sustained flying behind it, neared the "stretch" of the 151 hours, 40 minutes and 15 seconds goal aimed at by Pilot R. L. Robbins and his mechanic, James Kelly, as the bluish dawn lighted up the airfield above this city for the fifth time since the flight got under way Sunday at 11:33 a. m.

The 112-hour mark was reached at 3:33 this morning. The historic flying time of the Graf Zeppelin, recorded at approximately 111 1/2 hours, a record for that type of ship, was passed. A second mark to be passed some hours later if all goes well was the flying time of 118 hours established by the ill-fated French dirigible Dux-Duval.

The single motor in the rebuilt Ryan continued to purr smoothly as it had since the grind began. Pilot Robbins indicated he and Kelly were fatigued, but that the sound engine read: "The motor and the ship are in good shape and we are a little tired, but don't let it bother us."

PLANE WING RIP DELAYS FLIGHT.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., May 23.—(AP)—Four rips in the fabric-covered fuselage by the refueling hose caused the single-motored monoplane Three Musketeers to abandon its second attempt at a refueling enroute saving time tonight.

Lieutenant H. B. Clarke, financial backer of the flight, brought the plane to a perfect landing after 22 hours and 25 minutes aloft. The landing revealed a disagreement between Clarke and Major Martin, holder of the unofficial solo endurance record, who with William Ulrich comprised the remainder of the crew.

ATLANTIC PLANES AWAIT WEATHER.

Old Orchard Beach, Me., May 23.—(AP)—Two trans-Atlantic planes, one bound for Rome and the other for Paris, waited for a favorable weatherman to hop off from the beach here.

The French fliers, Jean Assolant and Rene Lefevre, Paris bound, late today brought their big Bernard to rest within eye-shot of the monoplane Green Flash which has been here several days waiting for favorable weather for a hop to Rome.

The new arrivals on completion of the short preliminary hop from New York were greeted warmly by Roger Q. Williams and Lewis A. Yancey, pilot and navigator, respectively, of the Green Flash. Although the proximity of the two ships at once revealed Manslaughter Verdict Re- turned by Jury in Ken- tucky—Appeal Will Be Filed.

Paintsville, Ky., May 23.—(AP)—A small boy who prattled unconcerned with playmates while a jury tried him on a manslaughter charge, tonight faced a sentence of almost 15 years in reform school for slaying an 8-year-old child following an altercation over a piece of scrap iron the children sought to sell to a junk dealer.

The boy, Carl Newton Mahan, six and a half years old, was sentenced by a jury in county court today to reform until he is 21 years old to the reformatory at Greendale, Ky., for the killing of his playmate, Cecil Van Hoose, son of Albert Van Hoose, a railroad fireman.

Jury Out 30 Minutes.

Although juvenile cases usually are tried without jury, counsel for the defense had demanded a venire and the case was tried by a jury which deliberated 30 minutes before bringing in a guilty verdict. Judge John W. Butcher pronounced sentence.

John Wheeler, of defense counsel, announced he would file motion for a new trial. He indicated the motion will be filed tomorrow.

While the Mahan youngster played with other children in the courtroom, apparently not realizing what was going on, Paul C. Hager, a witness, testified that the boy had told him that he shot his playmate because the Van Hoose youngster had "trunk him" and that he meant to kill Van Hoose.

Mrs. Manuel Fitzpatrick, a neighbor, testified she heard a quarrel from her kitchen but that the sounds ceased and she decided matters had been patched up. The quarrel, she said, was over a piece of scrap iron which the youngsters planned to sell to a junk dealer.

Shoots Following Quarrel.

Following the quarrel, testimony showed that the boy, who is of average size for his age, ran into the house, climbed up on a chair and took his father's shotgun from the wall, went out on the porch, leveled the rifle at his erstwhile playmate, and pulled the trigger. The charge struck Cecil in the chest and he died soon afterwards.

Carl Mahan, mother of the defendant and wife of a taxicab driver, testified that her son told her he did not know the gun was loaded. Mrs. Fitzpatrick, however, said she heard the boy threaten to get a gun and kill his playmate, but did not go out as she thought the threats to be idle ones.

The main session of the defense raised motion for a new trial appeared almost certain tonight, when it was indicated that the defense will contend there is no law in Kentucky by which a child under ten years old can be sent to reform school.

Mercer Glee Show Panned, Prof. Quits

Resigns as Club Director When Performance Is Re- viewed Unfavorably.

Macon, Ga., May 23.—(Special)—Because he considered a review of his Mercer Glee Club performance published in the Macon Telegraph of Wednesday unfavorable, and because "it's been that way ever since I've been here," Dr. H. P. Richardson, head of the chemistry department, today offered his resignation as director of the club to Dr. Spright Dowell, president of Mercer.

"A few of the boys on the club have told me they were very disgusted with what the home paper has been saying about the club," Dr. Richardson said. The review, which was written by the Mercer correspondent of the Telegraph, favored the performance of the club at the Wesleyan conservatory here Tuesday night in many respects, saying it "reached an altitude of worth-while entertainment," but Dr. Richardson took exception to unfavorable criticism of some of the acts.

MAN ABOUT TO WIN AT SOLITAIRE GAME IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Omaha, Neb., May 23.—(AP)—J. L. Coleman, 80, fell dead last night across a table on which he was playing solitaire. Clutched in his hand were the cards by which he could have won the game.

HOUSE TO VOTE ON TARIFF BILL BEFORE TUESDAY

Republicans Patch Up Differences; Debate on Measure Limited; Amendments Ready.

BY HAROLD D. OLIVER.

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—After two sessions lasting more than six hours, house republicans patched up a majority of their differences over the pending tariff bill today and approved a rule calling for a vote on the measure by 3 o'clock Tuesday.

The rule, adopted by a vote of 206 to 24 in the caucus, was subsequently approved by the rules committee by a strict party vote of 8 to 3. "It will be taken up in the house tomorrow under plans calling for one hour's debate. After adoption of the rule, the bill will be taken up for amendment.

Under the rule members of the ways and means committee would be given preference in suggesting amendments at any time during reading of the bill. The republican members of that committee made public today amendments which the committee will offer to the bill, including proposals for higher rates on hides, leather and shoes; cattle, butter and other farm products.

Introduce Amendments.

Various republican committee members will introduce the amendments on the floor.

No other items except those affected by such committee amendments would be subject to changes on the floor. The republican caucus voted down proposals to open for amendment the rates carried in the bill on sugar, cedar, brick, shingles, hardwood and cedar lumber, flax seed and the prohibition of the public today amendments which the committee will offer to the bill, including proposals for higher rates on hides, leather and shoes; cattle, butter and other farm products.

The tariff committee also voted to consider the proposed annexation of property lying in landlots 110, 103, 55, 57 of the 17th district of Fulton county and several school proposals at another session to be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night, May 30.

Immediate Action Urged.

Members of the charter revision committee of city council Thursday night voted to establish a 13th ward in Atlanta, provided the Georgia legislature and the people of Atlanta ratify their action.

The committee also voted to consider the proposed annexation of property lying in landlots 110, 103, 55, 57 of the 17th district of Fulton county and several school proposals at another session to be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night, May 30.

Many of the speakers urged immediate action and asked the committee not to refer the matter to a referendum of the voters of Atlanta. Committee members held, however, that since the new ward would require a minimum annual appropriation of $8,300, it was a matter for the electorate of the city to pass on.

Vote on the paper was as follows: Ed A. Gilliam, chairman; Alderman Robert E. Gann, Councilman W. Garland Cooper and Alderman P. L. Moon for, and Councilman James L. Wells against.

Mr. Wells contended that the question could be settled by the committee, city council and the Georgia legislature without taking it to the voters of Atlanta. He held that his constituents wanted the new ward and, therefore, he opposed the referendum amendment which Alderman Gann offered to his original motion to recommend establishment of the new political division.

Plan of Division.

If the plan is adopted, the ninth ward, which would be split in two to form the ninth and 13th wards, would be divided with the western extremity at the Southern Railway at Ponce de Leon. The division line would start at this intersection and continue eastward to Ponce de Leon avenue to Briarcliff road and thence northward to Virginia avenue.

Among those who supported the move for the new ward were A. G. Matthews, president of the Morning-Side Civic League; Councilman Raleigh Drennon, Robert M. Cobb, Jr., and Ellis B. Barrett; Alderman Robert E. Gann; Councilman W. Garland Cooper; and Judge Murphy M. Holloway.

William Ahlborn opposed the plan, saying it would make city council more top-heavy than it is now and would be an additional cost to the taxpayers of the city without increasing the revenue of the municipality.

"Atlanta is well able to take care of this number of visitors," Dr. Sutton said. "We will be able to provide suitable accommodations for this number and many more if they care to attend."

California is sending 300 visitors, the largest number any state so far has indicated, Mr. Sutton said. All delegates not so far registered for reservations have been requested to write to the housing committee, Atlanta Tourist and Convention bureau.

The convention will not only bring together the members of the N. E. A., but also 67 affiliated organizations. The National Educational Association is composed of school officials and teachers from superintendent and college presidents down to kindergarten instructors, and is the strongest school organization in the world.

The main session of the convention will be in the city auditorium and the Wesley Memorial church, with departmental meetings at the capitol, various churches, hotels, schools and courtrooms at the courthouse, if any are available at the time of the convention.

Secretary Arthur M. Hyde, of the United States department of agriculture, is to be the chief convention speaker. His address is scheduled for July 4. Dr. John Cooper, United States commissioner of education, will make the opening address of the convention. The sessions here will be presided over by Dr. Uel W. Lamb, of Marysville, Mo., president of the N. E. A.

Morgan Interests Buy Southeastern Power Co. Stock

THIRTEENTH WARD PROPOSAL VOTED

Charter Revision Body Approves Plan Only If People of Atlanta Ratify Their Action.

New York, May 23.—(Special)—The largest no-par capitalization ever recorded in the state of Delaware was filed yesterday under the name of the Commonwealth & Southern Corporation, which will start operations with 62,000,000 shares of stock. It will take over 40 per cent of the stock of public utility companies in which the Morgan-Bonbright-Drexel banking group is interested. The Southeastern Power & Light Company, holding company for Georgia Power Company and the Alabama Power Company, is one of the properties into which the group will buy.

It will have 60,000,000 shares of no-par common stock, 2,000,000 shares of preferred and own more than 40 per cent of the common stocks of Commonwealth Power Corporation, Southeastern Power & Light Company and Penn-Ohio Edison Company as a result of arrangements just concluded with the American Superpower Corporation and other large holdings of the stock of these companies.

45 Millions in Cash.

The largest single stockholder of the new company, which will start business with $45,000,000 in cash in addition to its securities, will be the American Superpower Corporation, which, it is reported, will turn over all stocks of the three companies in return for shares of Commonwealth & Southern Corporation.

Announcement of the formation of the new company did not reveal the names of the directors and officers, but it is believed that they will consist of the heads of Allied Light & Power Company, Southeastern Light & Power Company, United Gas Improvement Company, United Corporation, American Superpower Corporation, Commonwealth Power Corporation, Penn-Ohio Edison, J. P. Morgan & Co., Bonbright & Co., and Drexel & Co. of Philadelphia. This group will control the new company.

The new company is to be organized as a holding company for the operation of a giant system of public utilities extending from the northern part of New York state to Florida, with the exception of Virginia and North Carolina.

Georgia Power Co. ONE OF PROPERTIES.

The Georgia Power Company, which serves many Georgia communities with electricity for power and light purposes and which operates the Atlanta street railway system, is one of the subsidiaries of the Southeastern Power & Light Company, one of the companies named in the new company's combination told in dispatches given above.

Officials of the local company on Thursday night said that the new financial structure would not affect the operation of the Georgia Power Company. They pointed out, however, that the conversion made with the Southeastern Power & Light Company had made available capital resources for extensive development and betterment projects in this territory and admitted the new holding company might have a similar effect.

The combined gross earnings of Commonwealth Power Corporation, Southeastern Power & Light Company and Penn-Ohio Edison company expected to be $100,000,000 annually. The operating subsidiaries serve more than 1,500 communities in 11 states, have more than 2,300,000 horsepower installed electric generating capacity, more than half of which is hydro-electric, and supply electric service to approximately 1,000,000 customers.

Commonwealth Power Corporation controls nine operating companies, furnishing service in 621 communities located in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Tennessee.

Largest Consumers.

Its largest operating subsidiaries are Consumers Power company of Michigan and Tennessee Electric Power company.

Southeastern Power and Light company's operating subsidiaries furnish service in 868 communities, including practically the entire state of Alabama, northwestern Florida, eastern Mississippi, southeastern South Carolina and a large part of Georgia.

The principal operating companies of the Penn-Ohio Edison company system are Pennsylvania-Ohio Power and Light company, operating in the Youngstown, Ohio, district; The Northern Ohio Power and Light company, operating in Akron, Ohio, and vicinity; and the Pennsylvania Power company, operating in western Pennsylvania.

GRAF ZEPPELIN IS BACK AT HOME; 64 PEOPLE ABOARD

Friedrichshafen, Germany, May 24.—(Friday)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin landed here today at 5:06 a. m. (11:06 p. m., Thursday, eastern standard time).

The big ship traveled the 600 miles from Cuers, France in 8 hours and 41 minutes. It landed at Cuers last Friday when a violent northeast wind thwarted its return here after turning back from an attempt to cross the Atlantic.

Fourteen of its original 18 passengers, 40 members of the crew, eight invited French guests and two gorillas were aboard.

NEW YORK BOARD GIVES $500,000 TO AGNES SCOTT

Grant Depends on Rais- ing of Additional $1,000- 000 Among Friends of Decatur Female School.

Decatur, Ga., May 23.—(Special)—Gift of $500,000 to Agnes Scott college on condition that the college raise $1,000,000 was voted today at a meeting of the general education board of New York, a Rockefeller agency, according to telegraphic advice received by Dr. J. R. McCain, president of the institution.

A great expansion program, including not only vast increase in the campus building plan of the college, but also provision of a half-million dollars for scholarships to the institution will be launched as soon as the $1,500,000 is obtained.

Plans for the campaign to raise the $1,000,000 among friends of Agnes Scott will be formulated at a meeting of the board of directors of the school Friday, at which time all details of the drive will be arranged by the board under the chairmanship of J. K. Orr and Mrs. S. M. Inman, vice chairman.

Dr. McCain issued the following announcement: "This remarkable grant is the culmination of negotiations of at least a year between the college and the board, in the course of which Agnes Scott has made a very full showing of its development program and of its field of service and with its efficient business administration. Of the proposed $1,500,000 which is to be raised and spent, $1,000,000 is to be used for new buildings and for campus enlargements and improvements, the remaining $500,000 to be used for the endowment and to scholarship funds.

Fourth Gift.

"This is the fourth time the general education board has made offers to Agnes Scott. The first was in 1909 when $100,000 was promised on condition that $250,000 additional be raised. Agnes in 1919 there was an appropriation of $175,000 on condition that $325,000 besides be secured. The third offer was for $100,000 in 1921 conditional on the raising of $150,000 by college friends.

"In each case, friends in Atlanta, Decatur and other parts of the south have rallied to the support of Agnes Scott and enabled it to claim in full the amounts offered. College of humanity by one who is not himself a lender, but this contention Judge Humphries decided against.

The case originated with a judgment in the case and then signed an order sustaining the certiorari with judgment for costs against Harris Brothers.

The defendant in certiorari claimed that the small loan act did not mean to prohibit or regulate a charge for guaranty by one who is not himself a lender, but this contention Judge Humphries decided against.

PLAN FOR USURY BY 'LOAN SHARKS' ENDED BY DECISION

Court Order Bars Charg- ing Illegal Rate for "In- dorsement" and Interest on Borrower's Note.

12 MONTHS GIVEN FOR FILING SUITS

Decision Made by Judge Humphries in Favor of Claude Shepherd Against Harris Brothers, Inc.

Affecting more than 5,000 borrowers of small sums in Atlanta and vicinity, a sweeping decision was handed down by Judge John W. Humphries in Fulton county superior court Thursday, in the case of Claude Shepherd against Harris Brothers, Inc., which puts an end to illegal charges for indorsements of notes, and permits suit for recovery of amounts paid.

Under this ruling all those who have obtained small loans and have paid excessive sums, not countenanced by law, to persons or firms standing as security for small loans, are given right to apply to the courts for reimbursement, provided they enter suit within twelve months.

J. L. Boyd, counsel for the legal aid and anti-usury committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, represented Shepherd in the case.

The decision was rendered in a hearing on a certiorari brought by Shepherd to appeal from the judgment of the municipal court of Atlanta in favor of Harris Brothers, Inc. Shepherd sought recovery of $23.50 alleged to have been paid Harris Brothers for five months' loan of credit. Shepherd had borrowed $25 from the Industrial Credit Corporation, Harris Brothers standing as security on the loan, and, according to Shepherd, charging him $4.75 for the use of the money and guarantee on the first note and subsequent renewals.

At Thursday's hearing Judge Humphries overruled a motion filed by Elmer H. Scott, and Little, Powell, Smith & Goldstein for Harris Brothers, asking that the certiorari be dismissed because the defendant in certiorari alleged the pleadings of Shepherd to be vague and indefinite.

Judge Humphries heard argument in the case and then signed an order sustaining the certiorari with judgment for costs against Harris Brothers.

The defendant in certiorari claimed that the small loan act did not mean to prohibit or regulate a charge for guaranty by one who is not himself a lender, but this contention Judge Humphries decided against.

BOILER MAKERS CLOSE MEETING HERE TODAY

Banquet at Biltmore Is Highlight of Program. Seaboard Head Speaks.

The annual banquet, the principal entertainment feature of the National Convention of the Master Boiler Makers' Association, Thursday night at the Biltmore hotel, climaxed the four-day session here. L. M. Steward, of Waycross, president of the association, presided at the banquet, which was followed by a dance.

A brief business session will close the convention this morning. Two of the principal talks of the four-day convention were given Thursday by L. R. Powell, Jr., president of the Seaboard Air Line Railway company, and O. A. Garber, chief mechanical officer of the Missouri Pacific railroad.

The business meeting Thursday consisted largely of discussions of technical problems of the boiler maker trade, which extends into the field of locomotive manufacture and repair.

Mr. Powell spoke at length on the railroad as one of the important factors in the building of a country and that the boiler maker has had an important part in the development of the locomotive. He pointed out that during the government control of the railroads during the war the public became aware of the impression that the railroad owners were not operating the railroads as efficiently and economically as private owners could, and second, the impression that the railroad owners realized large returns from their investments was shown to be false. He also pointed out that the ever-increasing investment necessary for the maintenance of the railroads and that during the past 17 years railroad taxes have increased nearly 300 per cent.

Mr. Garber gave an interesting talk on maintenance of railroads.

Interracial Officer Lauds Veto of Segregation Paper

Action of Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Wednesday vetoing a segregation ordinance passed Monday by city council was met Thursday with commendation by R. E. Eleazer, educational director of the committee on interracial co-operation.

Prospect of a councilmanic battle, in which proponents will attempt to secure the two-thirds necessary vote to override the mayor's veto, was seen in an announcement by Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward and co-author of the measure, that he will seek to contest the authority of the mayor to recall the paper after having affixed his signature of approval. Mr. Eleazer's statement was in support of Mr. Ragsdale's contention that the paper is unconstitutional and has been so declared in several instances heretofore.

The Richmond (Va.) ordinance, after which the Atlanta paper was modeled, has been declared illegal under a ruling of the supreme court within the past ten days, and Mr. Eleazer contends that the Atlanta attempt at segregation would meet the same fate.

Opinion of Mayson.
In recalling the paper after he had signed it, and after vetoing it, Mr. Ragsdale said that City Attorney James L. Mayson had declared that the measure would be declared illegal if a test case were ever made against it.

Mr. White will contend that the mayor had no authority to disapprove the paper after he had approved it, holding that the ordinance was the law of the city just as soon as it was approved and delivered to the city clerk. The fact remains that the paper as it stands carries the mayor's veto, and whether a point as to the authority of the mayor can be made is a matter of much conjecture in city hall circles.

There is precedent for the mayor's action. He has done the same thing several times since he became mayor of the city and former Mayor Walter A. Sims did likewise, it was brought out Thursday.

Eleazer's statement regarding the veto follows: "Mayor Ragsdale has shown wisdom in his veto of the segregation ordinance and his act should be sustained by the city council. Sufficient reason is found in the fact that such ordinances have repeatedly been passed on by the courts and not one has ever stood the test of constitutionality. The supreme court of the United States in 1917 ruled against an ordinance almost identical in its terms with this, which came up from the city of Louisville. In 1922 another case of exactly the same nature went to the supreme court and met the same fate. Just a few weeks ago the city council of Richmond enacted an ordinance of which the Atlanta bill is said to be a verbatim copy, and that ordinance has already been declared unconstitutional by Judge D. Lawrence Grover and an injunction against its enforcement has been issued.

It would certainly seem that Mayor Ragsdale has acted wisely in vetoing a measure that would inevitably result in troublesome and costly litigation and ultimately be declared unconstitutional by the courts."

Headache Caused by Nerve Tension
A headache is Nature's warning of high nerve strain, which results, sooner or later, in high blood pressure and ultimate injury to the heart.

Headaches, Neuralgia and periodic pains and high nerve strain are relieved almost instantly by Capudine because it quickly soothes the nerves.

It contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. Being liquid, Capudine acts almost immediately—much quicker than tablets and powders. For every 30 years Capudine has proven a joy and comfort to millions who have suffered from nervousness and nerve pains. Sold by all druggists in 30c and 60c sizes.—(adv.)

HEARING IS CALLED ON 'INVISIBLE ASSETS'

Proposal To Be Considered at Meeting of Finance Committee Today.

Consideration of a proposal to force entry of "invisible assets" on tax digests for taxation and thus increase the city's revenue approximately $3,000,000 a year is set for 3 o'clock this afternoon in the city council chamber, it was announced Thursday by Councilman Wiley L. Moore, of the seventh ward, who is chairman of the finance committee.

The proposal is to "put teeth" in the present tax laws and empower tax assessors to summon witnesses and use all means possible to secure information regarding stocks, bonds and other intangible assets in an effort to raise the income of the city.

All those interested were invited by Mr. Moore to be present and express themselves. A public hearing was authorized at the last meeting of city council when Alderman J. Charlie Murphy, of the eleventh ward, author of the measure, asked that it be sent to the finance committee in order to obtain an expression from citizens as to the merits or demerits of the paper.

The plan is offered as a solution of a financial problem which was considered by a joint committee composed of members of the finance committee, the Atlanta board of education and a special citizens advisory committee. It was the outgrowth of an effort to obtain more money for operation of various departments of the municipal government, especially the schools.

Atlanta Plumber Wins Popularity Contest in South
The honor of being the most popular southern plumber has been awarded to Tom R. Stephenson, of the Stephenson Co., Inc., of Atlanta, one of this city's oldest and best known plumbers. In a south-wide popularity contest, conducted through the Southern Plumber, Mr. Stephenson obtained a total of 267,290 votes, more than 100,000 votes above his nearest competitor, James L. Evans, of Memphis, who finished second.

Mr. Stephenson was entered in the contest by the Georgia Master Plumbers' Association. There were seven other contestants and at no time during the spirited race did Mr. Stephenson lead until near the close of the campaign. In the final few days of the fight, the veteran Atlanta plumber took the lead and when the totals were counted he had almost as many votes as the combined total of the men who took second and third places.

Mr. Stephenson was born in De Kalb county in 1880 and entered the plumbing business in Atlanta when he was 21 years old. He installed the plumbing in some of the city's best known buildings, including the Kimball house and The Constitution building. He is a charter member of the Georgia Master Plumbers Association.

Edison Candidates Will Be Examined in Atlanta June 17
Physical fitness, satisfactory school records, special aptitude for scientific studies and an examination in high school English, history, mathematics and science will be the tests applied to applicants for the Thomas A. Edison scientific scholarship, it was announced Thursday by the state board of education. The applicants will be examined in Atlanta June 17.

Twelve applicants, one from each congressional district, will be examined in Atlanta and the boy selected will represent Georgia in a contest with representatives of the other states of the Union.

The district candidates will be selected in district contests held under rules adopted by the state board of education. These will be held June 10. Mr. Edison will hold a conference with the state winners later and will personally select the boy who will be given the scholarship. Expenses of all the state winners will be paid to and from the conference and each of the boys will be presented with a radio outfit by the famous inventor. Candidates will be held to their own expenses to and from the district contests and the state contest to be held at the capital.

Mrs. Drew Named As Maid of Honor at Gray Reunion
Appointment of Mrs. Charles E. Drew, of Atlanta, as maid of honor at the reunion of the United Confederate Veterans, to be held at Charlotte, N. C., was announced Thursday by General David S. Freeman, commander of the Georgia division of veterans. Mrs. Drew is secretary to Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture.

Mrs. Drew is the daughter of the late Duncan C. Graham, of McRae, Ga., and is a sister of Judge Eschel Graham, of the Oconee circuit. Mrs. Drew's mother, Mrs. Josephine Graham, is one of the few surviving widows of Confederate veterans in Telfair county.

Waycross Gives $500 to Assist Negro Convention
Waycross, Ga., May 23.—(Special.) The city commission has appropriated $500 to assist the negroes of Waycross in entertaining the state convention of the Negro Knights of Pythias, which meets in Waycross during July. The city commission also asked the citizens of Waycross to contribute generously to this convention fund.

It is expected that more than 5,000 negroes will be in attendance upon the convention. The local negroes are planning to erect a tent city to accommodate the visitors and delegates.

Mr. Lippitt, who came to Atlanta from Albany, where his father is a prominent business man, while here was associated with Candler, Thomson & Hirsch and later was manager of the Security Mortgage Company. He went to New York several years ago.

Atlanta Boosted As Meeting Place By Civitan Paper

Through the medium of The Civitan, official organ of Civitan International, Atlanta has received another big advertising boost as a city of comfort, beauty and commercial progress.

The May issue of the magazine, already in distribution, is devoted to the Civitan International convention to be held here June 10 to 12, and thousands of Civitans in all parts of the country are given an intimate glimpse of this city's many advantages. The convention hosts will be the Civitan Club of Atlanta, one of the most active and progressive units of the international organization.

In addition to the detailed program of the convention, the magazine carries in news and pictorial form Atlanta's many sources of amusement—its hotels, theaters, golf courses, parks and other points of interest.

An article is devoted to the social program arranged for women attending the convention with their husbands, with a special article on Atlanta's unexcelled railroad facilities as a medium for transporting the hosts of Civitans to this city. Other articles deal with the Stone Mountain memorial, business to be transacted by the convention and other matters of interest to Civitans.

The front page illustration of the magazine is an air view of Atlanta's skyline of skyscrapers, underneath being a sketch of Atlanta as a straggling village in 1864 just at the close of the war between the states.

The Civitan has a circulation that places it in the hands of thousands of Civitans members in all states of the Union, and officials in charge of the Atlanta convention in June point to the fact that the special convention number of the magazine is a valuable asset in advertising Atlanta as a city.

Col. Richardson, Ill Two Months, Dies at Capital

Colonel Wilds P. Richardson, retired, United States brigadier general during the World War, died Monday at the Walter Reed hospital in Washington, D. C. He had been a patient at the hospital two months. He was buried in the cadet cemetery at West Point.

He was a native of Texas and was appointed to the United States Military academy from Texas, was graduated in the class of 1884, and was later connected with the infantry branch of the service.

During the World War Colonel Richardson was stationed at Camp Gordon for three or four months, before being transferred overseas. He served the government in Alaska for 20 years as a road builder and it was because of that experience that he was chosen by General Pershing to take command of the American troops in Archangel in north Russia. He was awarded the distinguished service medal for his work in Russia.

Old Gold wins second place at Harvard

Breaking its string of victories, this 2-year old brand runs second to the cigarette established at Harvard more than 14 years

Two years against fourteen... a comparatively new cigarette youth against age and habit.

Yet OLD GOLD, the youngster, almost won! It defeated two out of three of its veteran contenders... and nearly defeated the third!

This is the story of the Public Cigarette Test conducted recently at Harvard, under the supervision of Edward T. Batchelder of the Harvard Crimson Editorial Board.

Time after time, in these comparative taste-tests of the four leading cigarette brands, OLD GOLD has won... and won decisively. In fact, with the single exception of the test at Harvard, OLD GOLD has scored an unbroken string of victories.

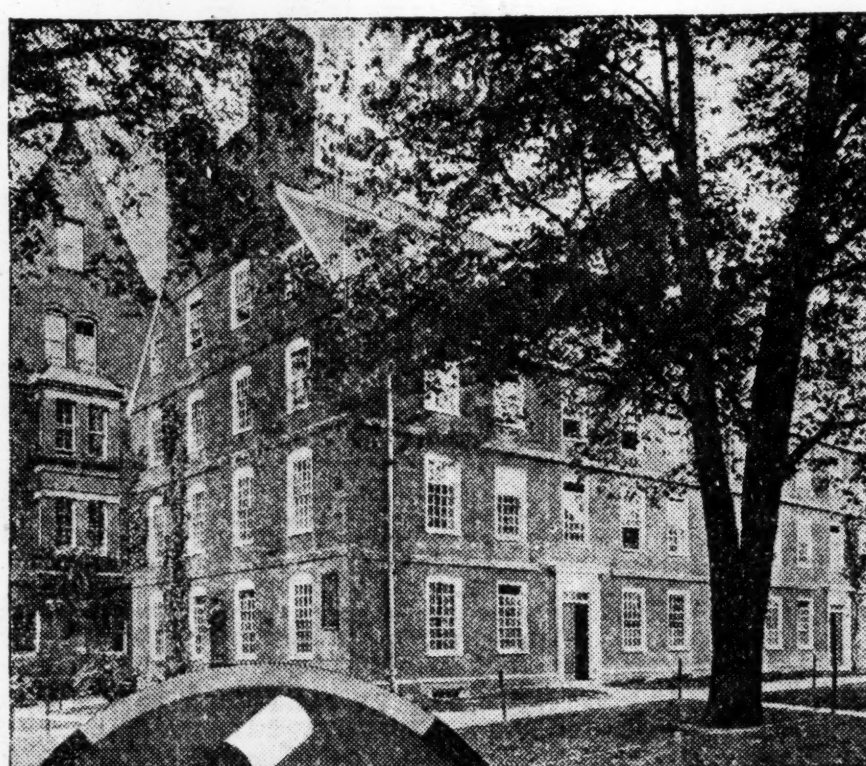

At Harvard, where pipe smoking is a tradition and the taste is for heavy tobaccos, smooth and mellow OLD GOLD faced its hardest contest. 148 undergraduates were asked to smoke and compare the four leading cigarettes. The brand names were concealed, but the cigarettes were numbered. Only one question was asked: "Which cigarette do you like best?" Answers were given by number, not by brand name.

Yet in the final score, OLD GOLD stood second in its total of "first choices" and barely missed defeating the brand established at Harvard more than 14 years!

Man o'War, the greatest horse of his time, lost one race. And in its first and only defeat, OLD GOLD, the two-year old, felicitates the fourteen-year old victor.

Georgia Must Pave Its Roads To Attract New Industries To State, Edmonds Declares

Member of Manufacturers' Record Staff Says South Is Entering Era of Prosperity.

Strategically located as it is, Atlanta should benefit during the prosperous era on which the southeast is entering if this city's business and commercial interests take advantage of all of their opportunities, Richard Woods Edmonds, a member of the editorial staff of the Manufacturers' Record and nephew of Richard H. Edmonds, publisher of the Record, said here Thursday.

"But if Georgia wants the industries which are bound to come to this section with its development the state must build highways on par with those of other states," Mr. Edmonds continued. "There cannot be a marked improvement in the industrial situation until the state paves the way for it through the construction of standard highways."

Mr. Edmonds is in Atlanta on one of his periodical business trips through the southeast. He is at the Atlanta Biltmore.

Section's Potentialities. Discussing conditions in the southeast generally, he said: "Spread out a map of the southeast, take a pair of dividers, and with Atlanta and New York as a radius of 150 miles, strike off a circle, and you will have included an area of exceptionally rapid present growth and enormous potentialities. To the south, running clear across the center of the state, is the greatest known area of kaolin deposits. To the west is the great Birmingham district, and to the north the humming industries of Tennessee, with Chattanooga as their center. Eastward lie the Carolinas, the ports of Savannah and Charleston, and the highway to the east. At the center of it all is Atlanta.

"Large industries are coming into this area, and coming rapidly. I am told that nearly every large refractory manufacturer in the United States is interested in the highly refractory clays of the kaolin belt, and at least two of them have bought kaolin deposits and are preparing to produce for their own consumption. Great tire plants are under construction. I might continue with an interminable list, but the point I want to make is that the great business organizations of the nation and, to a less extent, of the world, are aware of the advantages of this area as they have never been until the last few years, and they are studying its possibilities quickly but not really."

Industrial Vacuum. "Yet there is in this section what might be called a great industrial vacuum. I can illustrate my meaning in this fashion. A few years ago I compared the density of industrial development of the New England states, including the great forests of Maine, with that of the south, working it out on the basis of dollars invested, and wage earners employed, in factories per square mile of area. I found that for every dollar invested, in factories for each square mile of area in the south, there were $35 invested, and 35 wage earners employed, in the New England area. In New England, in other words the density of industrial development in New England is 35 times as great as in the south."

MOBILE PAPER DEAL STIRS TRADE HEARING

Organization of Press, Selection of Publisher Conceived by Power Group, Is Told.

Washington, D. C., May 23.—(AP)—While declaring the Alabama Power Company had made no investments in the Mobile (Ala.) Press, Thomas M. Stevens, a Mobile attorney, testified today before the Federal Trade Commission that the idea for the establishment of the Press originated in a conversation between himself and Thomas W. Martin, president of the Alabama Power Company.

Stevens, who as attorney, drafted the incorporation plans for the Press, which started publication last April 15, and is one of the newspaper's stockholders, told in his testimony of the negotiations which led to the selection of R. B. Chandler as its publisher. Chandler was a witness last week before the commission.

The commission, with Martin as counsel, Stevens said, after a conference last October, between executives and engineers of the International Paper Company and the Alabama Power Company on a proposed $8,000,000 industrial development plan by the two concerns in Mobile. In his discussion with Martin, Stevens said, he created a new Mobile newspaper, suggested after they had talked over the details of the newspaper, published by Frederick Thompson, in opposition to the power company. He added that the Press was established to oppose the newspapers of Thompson.

While they were discussing the proposed industrial program, Stevens testified, he asked Martin "What about the continued razing of the Alabama Power Company by the newspaper?" Martin replied that "it is quite disagreeable and unfair." Stevens added, "but we cannot let it interfere with our business." The Alabama Power company, he added, Stevens continued, "how long are you people in Mobile going to put up with the conditions that exist in the newspaper world there?"

Stevens declared that he had been "disgusted" with the Thompson papers in Mobile for 20 years. Mr. Martin likewise "most decidedly" was not pleased with them.

Martin suggested that Stevens should get in touch with Victor Hanson, publisher of the Birmingham News and the Age-Herald, who would aid him in securing a publisher of the proposed Mobile paper. Stevens said in December or January he conferred with Hanson who told him he could recommend a publisher and later Hanson called him to Birmingham to meet Chandler.

Hanson told him, the witness said, that he could not find a new newspaper in Mobile because of an agreement he had made with Thompson. He added that Hanson sold the old Birmingham News to the Birmingham Press when the latter newspaper was established.

In his testimony Stevens disclosed that under the incorporation agreement of the Press virtually all of the newspaper's stock was placed in a trust, "a trust" Stevens said, "the effect of which is to place control of the paper in the group of stockholders rather than in any individual's hands." "I do not know," he added, "what the Mobile people should control the paper for ten years," he added.

The agreement has a provision that the Mobile people may buy Chandler's stockholdings in the newspaper in event of his death or retirement.

MAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN AUTO ON FLORIDA ROAD

Tampa, Fla., May 23.—(AP)—A man identified by papers in the pocket as Elliott Ayres, 48, of 2221 Twenty-seventh avenue, North, St. Petersburg, was found shot to death shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon in an automobile parked 10 feet off the highway three miles north of here.

He was shot through the heart with a .25-caliber bullet, and a .25-caliber automatic pistol was lying on the car seat beside the body. The pistol had been shot twice. One empty cartridge was lying about 16 feet from the car and another was in the barrel of the gun. The body bore powder marks on the left breast.

Papers in the pocket included a registration receipt from Pinellas county and a coupon for a $10,000 Liberty Loan bond. The car contained a valise, a shotgun and fishing tackle.

JOHN BARRYMORE'S FORMER WIFE WEDS NEW YORK LAWYER

London, May 23.—(AP)—Michael Strange, the former wife of John Barrymore, was married to Harrison Tweed, New York lawyer, here today.

The former Mrs. Barrymore, who prefers her pen name Michael Strange, obtained a divorce from the actor last summer in New York state. Several months after the divorce became permanent, Barrymore married Dolores Costello, motion picture actress.

Miss Strange had known Mr. Tweed a long time both in New York and London.

The ceremony was performed at the register's office and only a few intimate friends were present. The couple will leave Europe late this summer to make their home in New York.

Wealthy Heir Jailed After Credit Spree

St. Petersburg, Fla., May 23.—(AP)

"Dr. Charles Emerson Sargent Maitland," self-styled head of the Maitland Foundation hospitals in this country and Europe, and heir to millions, remained a most contented prisoner in the city jail here tonight as much a man of mystery as ever.

Maitland was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of getting money under false pretense on complaint of a local Oriental rug dealer, after he had taken a ten-day option on a 14-room apartment building on Shell island and bought nearly half a million dollars worth of furniture, musical instruments, rugs, tapestries, paintings, statuary, antiques, silver ware and diamonds, an automobile and had retained a retinue of 11 servants, all without the down payment of a penny.

St. Petersburg merchants today admitted the laugh was on them. They had listened to the tales of castles in England and Scotland, ranches in the northwest and in South America, of palatial mansions in Pasadena, Calif., and Boston; they had taken "Dr. Maitland" for a wealthy man, an old valuation and had lent an ear to his story of from 19 to 25 millions in cash on deposit in banks of the United States and an income of more than six millions a year from a string of hospitals in this country and in Europe.

Most of them were taking steps to recover their property. A handsome new town car of expensive make used by the doctor for the past week was recovered last night by the company which sold it without a down payment.

With the single exception of the rug dealer who loaned Maitland $200 in cash in addition to selling him $80,000 worth of Oriental rugs, Maitland agreed that there were no charges to make against the "doctor."

W. L. Hardin, Los Angeles, real estate dealer, has wired police denying any liability for Maitland's debts, though admitting he has known the eccentric character for the past 16 years.

NOT SURPRISED DEALER DECLARES.

Los Angeles, Calif., May 23.—(AP)—W. L. Hardin, Los Angeles real estate dealer, was indifferently surprised today when told he had been dubbed "business manager" by Dr. Charles Emerson Maitland, St. Petersburg visitor who ran into difficulties over credit while living sumptuously.

"Dr. Maitland may or may not have the property he is claiming," St. Petersburg merchants here had, but he always told me he had it," was Hardin's comment.

The Californian said Maitland had merely "proposed" that he become his business manager when he came into an inheritance of property amounting to about $10,000,000.

"I met Dr. Maitland 16 years ago," Hardin said, "then several years ago he came to Los Angeles. He told me about some inheritance he expected to receive, and asked me to be his business manager after the inheritance came. I do not know whether he received the inheritance. It was to amount to something like $10,000,000—no to the hospitals, that's a new one."

Hardin referred to Dr. Maitland's claim to the chief surgeonship of several hospitals, known as the Maitland hospitals.

"I did lend him some money," the real estate dealer continued, "just as a friend in need, you know, and some of it he paid back and some of it I spent on a trip as a result of which Dr. Maitland stopped skin itching in 2 minutes."

N. J. COURTHOUSE WILL BE ERECTED OFFGEORGIANRANTE

Stone mountain granite will be used in the erection of the new $4,000,000 courthouse and municipal building at Camden, N. J., according to announcement made Thursday night by Q. S. Price, mayor of Camden, and Dr. L. F. Pilcher, consulting architect, who are at the Biltmore hotel.

The new municipal building, according to Dr. Pilcher, is one of the major civic operations in the United States. It will occupy a space 300 feet wide by approximately 175 feet deep, and contains a tower which will be 70 feet square by 365 feet high. The entire exterior facing of the new building will be of Stone Mountain granite.

Dr. Pilcher and Mayor Price spent Thursday at the quarries on an inspection trip.

MANHATTAN BRIDGE JUMPER DROWNS IN EAST RIVER

New York, May 23.—(AP)—A man jumped 155 feet off the Manhattan bridge over the East river and was drowned early today. A note found in a traveling bag left on the bridge indicated the man was an engineer for the New York Edison Company. At his Brooklyn boarding house it was said the man had been suffering from a nervous ailment and had planned to sail for his home in Denmark on Saturday.

COMPASS ON SHIP UPSET IN STORM BY ELECTRIC EELS

New York, May 23.—(United News)—There will be no more electric eels shipped aboard the Munson liner Ernest Rode wishes to bring back a menagerie from South American waters. Rode captured the eels in the waters of the Amazon river on an expedition which yielded several varieties of monkeys, birds and other jungle inhabitants. He placed them in a tank aboard the Western World, and unfortunately the tank was located directly under the bridge.

As the ship left Rio a severe electric storm arose and the eels began exuding volts.

The ship's officers were surprised to see the magnetic compass spin in an erratic manner which left north, south, east and west so scrambled they didn't know where they were piloting the vessel.

The eels' batteries apparently were down, however, and the compass returned to normal.

MRS. BENNETT NAMED HEAD OF SHRINE LADIES

Fifteenth Annual Convention
Closed With Election of Officers.

Mrs. J. B. Bennett, of Buffalo, N. Y., was elected grand president of the Shrine of the Ladies of the Orient, Shrine of North America at the business session of the organization here Thursday which brought to a close its 15th annual convention.

Mrs. Walter Pattillo, of Atlanta, the head of the local chapter, was honored with the position of grand inner guard.

Mrs. Charles J. Hartung, of Toledo, Ohio, retiring ranking officer, was elected chairman of the board of trustees, a position which she will hold for three years. With the installation of the new officers, the meeting was adjourned and the delegates motored to Lakewood for a mammoth barbecue following which they went on a sight-seeing tour of Atlanta and vicinity.

Hundreds of the visitors were enjoying their first taste of Georgia barbecue, prepared as only a Georgia expert knows how.

The new barbecue pit at Lakewood park, with a roof built over it to protect the all-night fires from rain, is said to be the largest in the country, with capacity for serving 6,000 guests.

It was decided that the next national convention will be held at Indianapolis, Ind.

Other officers elected were: Mrs. A. D. Blanchard, of Altoona, Pa., grand princess; Mrs. Edwin Smith, of Philadelphia, Pa., grand associate conductress; Mrs. S. J. Summers, of Wheeling, W. Va., grand recorder; Mrs. E. J. Sheehan, of Wheeling, W. Va., grand treasurer; Mrs. J. B. Youngblood, of Columbus, Ohio, grand first ceremonial lady; Mrs. E. E. Rockwood, of Toronto, Ontario, grand second ceremonial lady; Mrs. Archie Jacques, of Hammond, Ind., grand oriental guide; Mrs. D. C. Cookinham, of Los Angeles, Cal., grand marshal, and Mrs. Laura J. Buttle, of New Jersey, grand organizer.

Revival Under Way.
Revival services at the colored Springfield Baptist church now in session will be continued through June 7. The first two weeks are being conducted by Rev. C. S. Jackson, of Madison. Another preacher will occupy the pulpit the final week. Rev. N. J. Johnson is pastor. The church is at the corner of Jones and Griffin streets, a block from the River car line.

LOST 20 POUNDS
DURING TROUBLE,
SAYS ROY JONES

Entire System Built Up
by Sargon and He Has Gained Ten Pounds, Declares Atlanta Man.

"Sargon was worth many times its cost to me. Four bottles of this wonderful medicine built me up ten pounds, gave me new strength and energy, and made me feel like a different man.

"About four months ago I began to lose my appetite and what little food I did force myself to eat seemed to sour on my stomach. I would feel bloated and have weakening, gnawing pains that just took my strength and upset my whole system. My liver was sluggish and I had headaches and a coated tongue. My skin was a yellow, unhealthy color. I was very nervous, couldn't sleep well and would feel as tired in the mornings as when I went to bed. I lost twenty pounds, and got to where I was so lifeless and run down that it would be a drag for me to do my work. I realized that something had to be done, so when I kept reading about the many fine things Sargon was doing for others, I decided to try the treatment.

"My first bottle convinced me that I was on the right track to good health again. Everything I ate began to agree with me. I have no more pains in my stomach and my only trouble now is that I have such an appetite I can hardly wait from one meal to another. I'm not nervous any more and I get up in the mornings, after a good night's sleep, full of energy. I can go about my work cheerfully with no old-time strength.

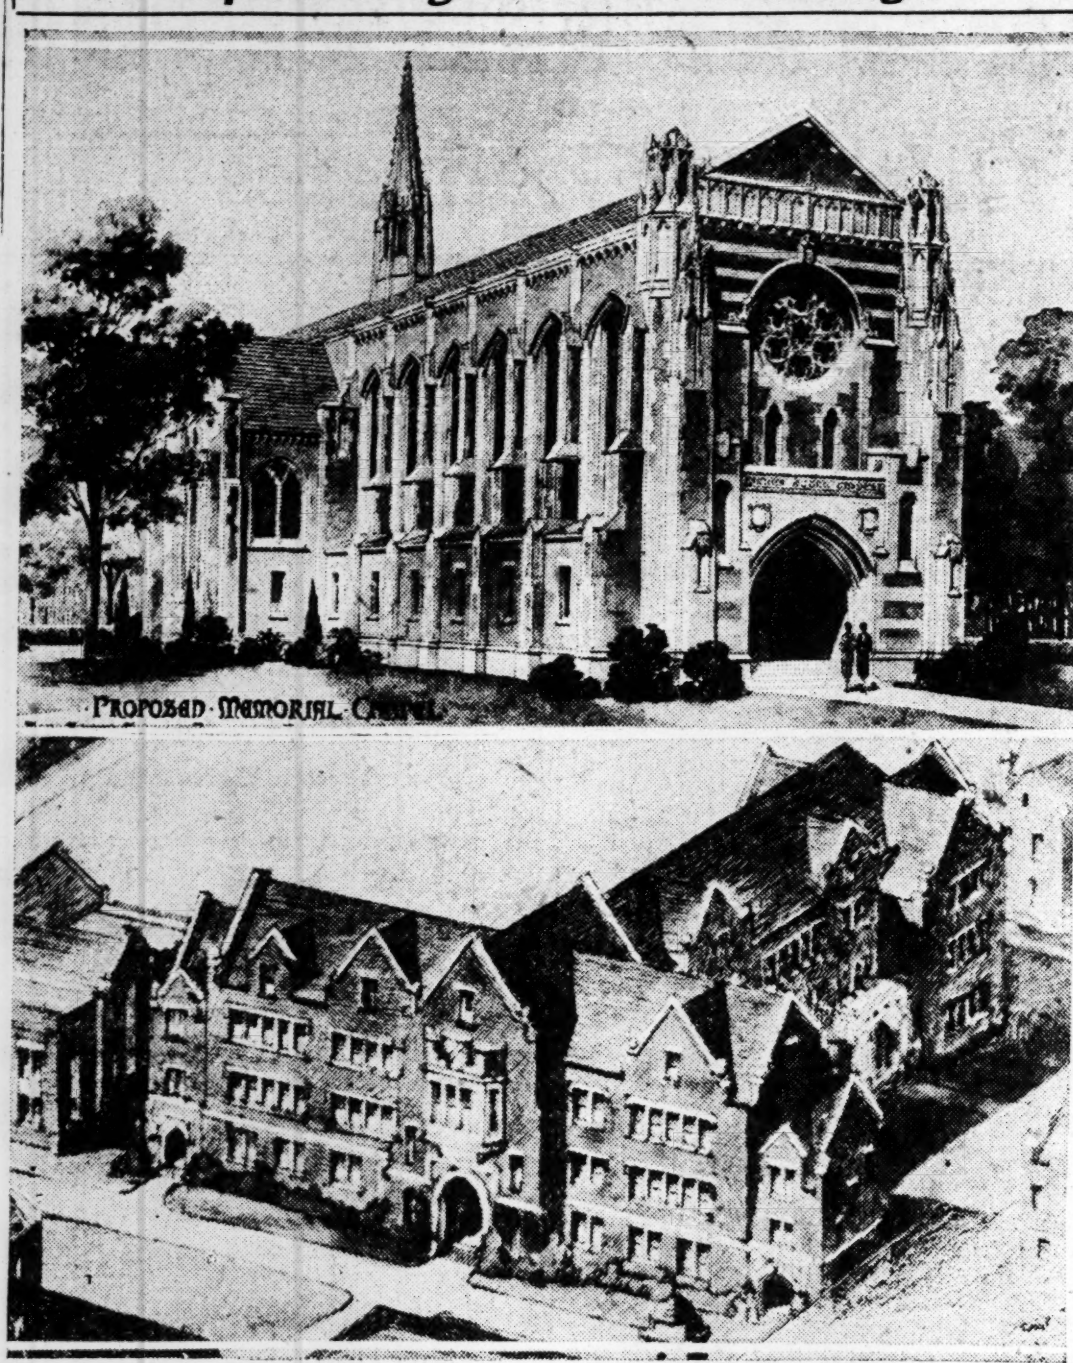

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills stimulated my liver and overcame constipation so I don't have those headaches any more. My tongue cleared up and a good, healthy color came back to my skin. My whole system is reconditioned and toned up to new health.

"This Sargon treatment will help anybody if they will take it consistently like I did, and I am glad to recommend it to my friends and others."

The above statement was made recently by Roy D. Jones, who lives at 464 Crew St., S. W. Mr. Jones is employed by The Atlanta Constitution and is highly regarded by all who know him. He is a member of the Richardson Street Baptist church.

A special Sargon representative at Jacobs' main store, 6 and 8 Marietta street, is explaining the new medicine to vast throngs daily. Sargon may also be obtained at all Jacobs' Drug Stores throughout Atlanta. (adv.)

Proposed Agnes Scott Buildings

Architect's drawings of two beautiful new structures which will grace the Agnes Scott campus as part of a building plan which will be begun on the funding of $1,000,000 in Atlanta and Georgia to obtain a gift of $500,000 which was proffered the institution Thursday by the board of education of New York. At the top is the proposed memorial chapel of Dr. F. H. Gaines, first president of the college, a structure which will cost $125,000 and will give Agnes Scott one of the finest chapels in the entire south. The building below will be the principal academic structure on the Agnes Scott campus under the new plan, and will be erected at a cost of $300,000. It will be called 'Wallace Buttrick Hall' in honor of the first president of the general education board, who was a staunch friend of Agnes Scott.

First of Many Big Events For Gainesville's Spring Festival To Begin Today

Mammoth Parade of 75
Floats To Open Program
Today—Airport Will Be Christened Saturday.

BY ALBERT S. HARDY, JR.
Gainesville, Ga., March 23.—(Special.)—Gainesville's spring festival for the period May 24-31 will be ushered in auspiciously at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon with a mammoth parade of between 60 and 75 floats, beautiful in the extreme, notably those of industrial enterprises, public schools, Brenau and Riverside, and the merchants of the city.

In addition to the float parade will consist of cadets of Riverside Military Academy, the Chilesborough drill team of the cavalry unit of the University of Georgia, Boy Scouts of the Gainesville area, bands of New Holland, Chicago, Manufacturing Corporation, Gainesville and Riverside Academy, and attractively decorated automobiles of individuals. The parade is slated to surpass any festival column ever witnessed in Gainesville.

Immediately following the parade the University of Georgia cavalry unit will present their skill on the drill field at Riverside where every facility will be provided for the public to witness the event, which has attracted much attention wherever shown.

Friday night the graduating exercises of the Gainesville High school will take place at Brenau Auditorium. Colonel E. P. Gaillard will deliver the baccalaureate address following which 75 Gainesville boys and girls will receive their diplomas.

Airport Opens.
Gainesville's new air port will be appropriately opened at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon with an air derby in which more than 20 planes from the department of commerce, aviation companies and private owners will participate in a series of air events unparalleled in any air circus ever staged in this section.

Included in the events will be balloon bursting contest, bomb dropping contests, a 15-mile race, dead stick landings, parachute jumps and exhibition flying.

Elaborate cups will be presented winners in the various events and second and third place awards will be wrist watches and cash prizes.

Among the noted pilots who have accepted invitations of the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the festival, to attend the derby are: Murray Hall, aeronautical inspector of the department of commerce; Lieutenants L. C. Ene and Ed Hill; representatives of the department of commerce; Pilot W. L. Jamieson and J. B. Price, division traffic manager of the Interstate Airlines, Inc.; Harry Graves, chief clerk of district No. 4, air mail service; and Pilot Jimmie Kronsop, of Macon; Erret Williams, of Greenville, S. C.; Beeler Blevins, of Atlanta; George Shealy, of the T. A. T. Flying Service, Inc., of Atlanta; "Doc" Davis, of the T. A. T. Flying Service, Inc.; Johnny Kille, noted Piteira air mail pilot; T. F. Johnson, of Atlanta; Hugh Dubose, of Atlanta; George Finch, of Atlanta; Jim Williams, Fred Zeilins, of Atlanta; E. W. Highower, of Atlanta; Charlie Adamson, of Columbia, and others.

The visiting pilots and distinguished guests will be extensively entertained, and a dance has been arranged for them tonight at the beautiful White Sulphur Springs hotel, six miles north of this city.

Program.
Sunday the annual commencement exercises of Riverside will begin and the complete program for the remainder of the week's festival follows:
Sunday, May 26.
11:30 A. M.—Commencement session of Riverside at the First Baptist church by Dr. Walter P. Binns, of LaGrange.

SENATE COMMITTEE SWITCHES MILL QUIZ

Washington, D. C., May 23.—(AP)—Inquiry into labor conditions in the textile industry by the federal trade commission rather than by a senate committee was voted today by the senate manufacturers' committee, 6 to 5, but the senate must act before such an investigation can be initiated.

Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, author of the resolution for a senate inquiry, announced he would submit a minority report to the senate proposing an investigation by the senate and would urge its adoption in place of the majority report of the committee. The resolution had been agreed to by the senate next week.

The following five members of the committee are known to have voted for the Wheeler resolution for a senate inquiry: Chairman La Follette, of Wisconsin; McNary, Oregon, republican; Wheeler, Tennessee, republican; Wheeler, Texas, democrat, and Sheppard, South Carolina.

The committee resolution had been amended to provide that the inquiry include the entire textile industry. Wheeler originally proposed to investigate conditions in the mills in North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee, where labor difficulties have appeared recently.

The committee will meet again tomorrow to consider minor amendments and Chairman La Follette hopes to get the two committee reports before the senate for its decision by next week.

ROOSEVELT WILL ACCEPT OFFICE IN PORTO RICO

Shanghai, China, May 23.—(AP)—Kermit Roosevelt, member of the Roosevelt Field Museum expedition to the interior of Asia, who arrived here today en route home, said that he had accepted the governorship of Porto Rico.

CONVICTED SLAYER SENT TO MURRAY COUNTY PRISON

Waycross, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—George Robbins, sentenced in Ware county superior court to serve from 15 to 20 years at hard labor for the killing of Jack Crews here last July, has been sent to Murray county under orders of the prison commission of Georgia.

Robbins entered a plea of guilty on a charge of voluntary manslaughter, at the regular May term of Ware county superior court, and a consent verdict was taken.

Several other prisoners, following the superior court session here, have been sent to Chatsworth to serve their time in Murray county. They are Jack Flood, Lester Spell, Ed Jones and M. R. Gilliard. Albert Brown, negro, also is assigned to Murray county.

MARTHA BEALL CANDLER PORTRAIT UNVEILED

Mrs. J. Sam Guy Presents
Canvas to Wesleyan College.

Macon, Ga., May 23.—(AP)—Mrs. J. Samuel Guy, formally presented for her father, Judge John S. Candler, a portrait of his mother, Martha Beall Candler, which he gave to Wesleyan college and which was unveiled in the Candler Memorial library at the college this afternoon at 4 o'clock by two little granddaughters, Dr. William F. Quillian, president of Wesleyan, received the gift for the college.

Mrs. Guy gave a brief sketch of Martha Beall Candler, giving several instances in her life to show the character of this little woman who was less than five feet tall and never weighed more than 35 pounds, but who possessed such dignity and righteousness that her word was law with her eleven children.

"She was a great lover of truth and beauty," said Mrs. Guy, in speaking of Mrs. Candler, "and taught her children to love good books, poetry, music and the beauty of the world about them. This building seems peculiarly fitting as a memorial to her, because of this love of beauty and knowledge which she instilled into the lives of her children."

The granddaughters of Judge Candler then unveiled the portrait. The little girls were Florrie Margaret Guy, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Samuel Guy, of Emory university, and Margaret Louise Candler, the daughter of the late Major Asa Warren Candler, the only son of Judge Candler.

Dr. William F. Quillian received the portrait and in referring to Mrs. Candler said in part: "There she stands, calm, quiet, dignified, beautiful with the fragrant roses of springtime scattered about her. Who can tell her great worth and knowledge, her life story over the coming generations of splendid young women who will be gathered here from all parts of the world?"

"All of her children have passed from this earth, except the honored senior bishop of our church and the beloved jurist and philanthropist who presents this portrait."

A quartet sang "Little Mother of Mine."

The painting of Mrs. Candler is hung on the center panel of the library facing the main entrance.

The Candler Memorial library was given to Wesleyan college campaign by Judge Candler in memory of his father and mother.

NEW YORK BOARD
GIVES $500,000
It has grown rapidly and gained great prestige.

It was the first college or university in Georgia what was admitted to the Southern Association of Colleges. It is also affiliated with the American Association of University Women, the Association of American Universities, the American Council on Education, the Association of American Colleges; and it is one of less than a dozen colleges for women in the world having a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

It has drawn students from every state in the union and from 17 foreign countries.

The college has been fortunate in having able administrators. Miss Nanette Hopkins was the first teacher to be employed when the school opened in 1880, and she has been Dean ever since then. Hon. Charles Murphy Candler, now chairman of the executive committee, has likewise given 40 years of life service. The only president the college had was Dr. F. H. Gaines until his death in 1923, when the present incumbent, Dr. J. R. McCreary, was elected. The chairman of the board of trustees have also been great leaders—George W. Scott, Samuel M. Inman, and Joseph K. Orr. During the administration of Mr. Orr, beginning in 1915, Agnes Scott has tripled its assets.

Registered at First Day's Session.

Rome, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—Georgia Retail Furniture Association opened its 1929 annual convention here this morning with a business session at the Forrest hotel, general headquarters, with W. H. Hicks, of Atlanta, presiding.

More than 100 delegates had registered by noon today and at least that many more are expected before the two-day meet is over. Welcome was extended by T. B. Owens, chairman of the city board of commissions, and the response was given by T. C. Dickson, of Atlanta.

R. R. Ray, executive secretary of the National Retail Furniture Association, and V. S. Cochran, vice president of the National City bank of this city, were principle speakers this morning. A feature of the program was the open forum talks led by the president, and reading of a talk made before the National Retail Furniture Association in Chicago recently by P. E. Kroebler. The paper was read by T. C. Dickson.

During the morning session committees were named and instructed to make their reports Friday afternoon. Upon these committees were appointed as follows: Nominating committee, Otis Daniel, A. L. Myers and J. T. Middlebrooks; resolutions committee, Ivan G. Cochran, I. C. Helmy and P. I. McCreary; convention committee, J. N. Channell, T. C. Dickson and Arthur Johnson.

This afternoon following luncheon the furniture dealers were carried on an automobile tour of the city at 1:30 o'clock. This ride included the Chattahoochee mills, Berry schools, Shorter college, Myrtle Hill cemetery, and other points of interest.

At 2:30 o'clock the second meeting of the day was called and Eagle Freshwater, A. L. Myers, president of the Myers-Miller Furniture company of Atlanta, and R. C. Fowler were the speakers. Tonight at 7:30 o'clock a banquet was held and Dr. W. D. Furry, president of Shorter college, delivered an address.

Man Is Held, Charged With Killing Brother

Waycross, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—Lias Bullard, Coffee county farmer, is in jail at Douglas charged with the murder of his brother, Frank Bullard. The shooting occurred more than a week ago at the Lias Bullard home near Broxton. A quarrel took place followed by the tragic shooting, officers being informed that both the men were drinking.

The deceased leaves a wife and several children.

FORD IS GUEST AT JEWISH DINNER; HE PRAISES RACE

New York, May 23.—(AP)—Henry Ford tonight was one of the guests at a dinner given by more than 2,000 Jews in honor of David A. Brown, Jewish philanthropist, of Detroit and New York.

Mr. Ford did not speak, but issued a statement in which he praised Mr. Brown as "a shining example of the great benevolence of the Jewish people, their philanthropy, their eagerness to make this world better, to educate the untutored, to heal the sick, to care for the orphans; their intent and intelligent participation in all that makes for civic righteousness and social justice stamps them a great people."

Sore Gums Need Quick Attention

Tender, bleeding gums foretell pyorrhea—and pus from pyorrhea spreads infection to the entire gum lining, often causing loss of teeth and ill health.

A new, powerfully medicated tooth paste known as Zi-O-Dine inactivates germ-bearing pus, heals diseased tissues and keeps mouth cool, clean, sweet and healthy.

Zi-O-Dine brings you all the wonderful properties of Iodine—which is used by nearly all dentists in treating gum troubles, plus all the cleaning and whitening features of ordinary tooth paste.

It makes tender, bleeding gums heal right up; draws out soreness and makes them firm and healthy.

JULY 5 SET AS DATE WHEN FAIR MUST DIE

Defendant Denies Murder Intent—Guillebeau Will Ask New Trial.

Friday, July 5, was set Thursday by Judge H. H. Howard, of Fulton superior court, as the date for the execution of Fred Fair, pressman, who was convicted Wednesday for the second time of the murder of Patrolman J. E. McDaniel. Len B. Guillebeau, counsel for Fair, announced that a new trial would be sought, stating that if his motion for a rehearing was overruled he would carry the case again to the state supreme court.

Fair recently was granted a new trial by the state supreme court, following his conviction and sentence to death several months ago. The new trial was granted because Solicitor-General John A. Boykin was allowed to read into his argument statistics on crimes in Georgia.

All Fair had to say Thursday morning when Judge Howard passed sentence was "I am not guilty of killing Patrolman McDaniel intentionally." Fair has contended that the shooting of the officer was an accident. The officer was wounded by Fair when he grappled with the latter a few moments after Fair had shot E. L. Griffin.

"I realize it is mandatory upon your honor to pass this sentence at this time," Mr. Guillebeau said. "The verdict of the jury leaves you no discretion in the matter. Of course, your honor, the sentence that you pass at this time can never be enforced by reason of the fact that we shall file a motion for a new trial, and if your honor sees fit to overrule it the case will be carried to the supreme court, and if the verdict of the jury and its provisions are eventually carried out it will be necessary to pass sentence again upon this client."

"If I may I would like to say this, your honor, that God commands, 'Thou Shalt Not Kill,' applies as much to jurors and the 12 men trying this case as to anyone else, and to whom it is directed. If the provisions of this verdict are carried out it will be the jury and the jurors who by their verdict will take the life of my client, Mr. Fair."

"If your honor, please when we come to face the final judgment we cannot plead in defense of our actions any man-made law. Only the laws of God will govern and control that final judgment in that final trial we all must meet, and I say this meekly and humbly, and I say this with the highest regard and the highest esteem for the honor, honesty and integrity of these jurors that if this verdict and its provisions are carried out these men as well as other men who pass similar verdicts cannot face the final judgment without human blood on their hands. They cannot wash their hands of this blood by pleading any man-made law for those laws will not have force and effect in the final judgment."

"Your honor, the great state of Georgia through its laws and those who are chosen to enforce and administer those laws, is pleading for a reduction in killings and a reduction in the taking of human life. We are pleading that human life be held more sacred, and that we refrain from taking from man the breath of life. As I see it, your honor, the state of Georgia must practice what it preaches."

The cornerstone for the new J. Allen Couch school, at Sixth and McMillan streets, was laid Thursday afternoon with Judge E. D. Thomas of the Fulton superior court officiating.

METCALF TO VISIT NEW YORK ON TRIP TO BUY OVERCOATS

John A. Metcalf, owner and operator of the Metcalf Clothing and Hat Stores here, announced Thursday that he will leave for New York next week to make extensive purchases of overcoats and topcoats for next winter and fall. By placing his orders now, Mr. Metcalf pointed out, he will keep tailors busy during the summer months and obtain a substantial concession on the price of the merchandise.

Value of Paved Highways To Farm Lands Pointed Out

One of the largest insurance companies in the country, which has loaned $12,000,000 on Georgia farms, advised its Georgian loan agents last year that no more farm loans would be made in Georgia by this company unless the farms faced a paved highway, according to the joint committee for highway bonds.

In an address before the convention of the United States Good Roads Association, in Memphis on May 1, B. C. Milner, assistant state highway engineer of Georgia, quotes from United States government investigations covering the increase in land values following highway improvement. He said:

"In one county, 25 farms containing 5,518 acres, located on the roads improved, were selected. The market value of all the farms, including buildings and other improvements, prior to improving the roads, was $77,550, or an average of $14.13 per acre. In the same year, the average value of all lands in this county, including buildings, was reported by the United States census bureau to be $13 per acre, thus indicating the accuracy of the data obtained by this investigation."

MILLION CONTRACT GIVEN BY SEABOARD TO ATLANTA FIRM

The McDougald Construction Company has been awarded a $1,000,000 contract for construction of railroad tracks in Virginia for the Seaboard Air Line Railway, it was announced Thursday by L. R. Powell, Jr., president of the company.

Mr. Powell made the announcement following his talk Thursday before members of the Master Builders Association, in the annual convention at the Biltmore hotel.

The contract covers 16 miles of roadbed and track in Virginia between Richmond and Hopewell.

The Seaboard president also released figures not yet made public upon the April earnings of the company, which will be half a million dollars in excess of those of April, 1928.

He stated that the first four months of 1929 show a gain of $1,000,000 over the same period of last year.

Mr. Powell said, "I see increasing, fine evidence of a general expansion of industry and commerce throughout the south, and Atlanta plays a prominent part therein. Our recently inaugurated service between Washington and Atlanta is a concrete up to all expectations, and demonstrated Atlanta's importance as a center of rail activities in this section."

MISS MARION GRANT WILL SING TODAY AT LEGION MEETING

Miss Marion Grant, leading lady of the Fultonville players, appearing at the Atlanta theater, will entertain members of Atlanta Post No. 1 of the American Legion at their luncheon meeting at 12:30 o'clock today at the Henry Grady hotel. Miss Grant is to offer several vocal numbers. Perry Bechtel and a surprise comedy act also are on the entertainment program arranged by Pat Trimble.

A special feature of the program will be the appearance of E. B. Adair, widely known record artist.

$100,000 DAMAGES IS ASKED IN SUIT FOR LOSS OF FOOT

Suit for $100,000 damages for the loss of his left foot and ankle was filed in city court of Atlanta Thursday by William C. Miller, 24, switchman, against the Southern Railway Company. The plaintiff alleges that defective brakes caused a coal car to jerk suddenly as he was applying the brakes, and that he was thrown from the car and under the wheels. The accident happened on March 10, near Brookwood station, according to the petitioner. Harwell, Fairman and Barrett filed the suit as attorneys.

NOISY VENTILATOR SILENCES HEFLIN FOR FEW MINUTES

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—Senator Thomas Hefflin, of Alabama, was defeated in an election contest with the new ventilating system in the senate chamber. The ventilator became so noisy Hefflin was forced to suspend for ten minutes his speech against the "power trust" while the machinery was fixed. He proceeded as soon as the sergeant-at-arms restored silence.

FEDERAL AGENT HERE TO SURVEY P. O. SITES

H. O. Richey Establishes Headquarters—Work Ex- pected to Take a Week.

H. O. Richey, district engineer and site agent of the treasury department, has begun his survey of the various pieces of property which have been offered as sites for the proposed new federal building and has established his headquarters in room 218 of the postoffice building.

He stated Thursday that his work here probably would take approximately one week, following which he will make his report to the secretary of the treasury, who will make the final selection of the location. There is no way of telling just when this will be done or when the actual work of construction will start, Mr. Richey declared. While he is in the city owners or agent who already have submitted sites will be given the opportunity to change or modify their proposals and offers of property other than those already submitted will also be given consideration if in a suitable location.

THREE ARE NAMED COUNTY REGISTRARS BY FULTON JUDGES

W. W. Gaines and P. W. Derrick, democrats, and St. Clair Gibbs, republican, Thursday were reappointed as Fulton county registrars in an order signed by the judges of Fulton superior court. Term of office is for two years, the present term expiring November 20. The law provides for appointment at this time of the year. Charles B. Shelton furnished an opinion to the judges that there is no law preventing Derrick, who is sheriff of the state court of appeals, from holding that office and the county registrar office at the same time.

MEMORIAL DIRECTORS TO HEAR PEACE PLAN

Attorneys Will Report To- day on Contract Looking Toward Settlement.

Report of the attorneys of the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental Association on the contract which they have drawn in accordance with the suggestion of C. H. Venable looking toward a settlement of the difficulties which have heretofore existed, will be heard and considered at the meeting of the board of directors of the association at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce building.

Mr. Venable's proposal that attorneys for both sides confer to determine if some mutually acceptable plan can be worked out to allow the work on the memorial to be completed was unanimously accepted at the last meeting of the board and the attorneys were instructed to proceed. While no intimation has been given as to what the terms of the new contract will include, interested parties are highly hopeful that the result of today's meeting will be the resumption of work on the memorial and the completion of the central group of three figures.

Election of officers and executive committee will also be a feature of the meeting and a full attendance has been requested.

The immoral and illegal "loan shark racket" in Georgia received a mortal wound yesterday by the decision of Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court. He reversed the ruling of the Atlanta municipal court that credit guaranty companies, or individuals, could charge unrestricted fees for endorsing the notes of small loan borrowers from those operating under the state "small loan law."

The scheme thus brought to an end was an unblushing evasion of the laws and devastating to untold thousands of small borrowers who got caught in the coils of the crushing usury machine.

The unconscionable operators have swarmed in all our cities and industrial towns and by their extortions, fortified by chattel mortgage and bail troyer handoffs, have stripped the earnings and confiscated the household goods of thousands upon thousands of the poorer people of the state.

Some of the victims have been compelled, under the menace of criminal prosecutions, to pay sums to carry their small loans amounting to 4,000 per cent, instead of the exceedingly liberal rate allowed by the state, which was enacted to protect them from just such skinning schemes of the sharks.

This smashing decision by Judge Humphries has been sought for many years. The Junior Chamber of Commerce took up the cause of these spoliated small borrowers some years ago, and by its committees and its special attorney, J. L. R. Boyd, have defended and released many of them, while steadily seeking to destroy the baleful business by legal judgments.

The supreme court of the state having decided that loans of credit are included in the terms of the small loan law, Judge Humphries now renders a judgment which should emancipate every person enmeshed in the usurious loans and, on final decree, give right of action to thousands to recover the usury payments they have made to the vampires in the past. Under the Humphries ruling no one need continue to meet the demands of the loan sharks, for their paper chains on their victims are illegal and worthless.

There remains only to applaud and to support the splendid work that has been accomplished by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Attorney Boyd, for they have become the potential emancipators of another race of slaves—the peons of the loan sharks!

VERY PROPER PROTECTION.

One can readily understand why the people of Florida, in common with those of Texas and California, laid heavy demands upon the tariff builders to raise the duty on Mexican tomatoes when he reads that last year 4,357 carloads of them reached the markets of the United States.

The climates of Florida and the Mexican tomato-growing districts are much the same and hence the competition of the greasers with the 'gators has been acute and depressing to the American products. The tariff framers have responded by hiking the rate on tomatoes in the natural state from one-half of one cent per pound to three cents—and if that rate stands up to the finally enacted bill it ought to put a strong brake on the Mexican-American tomato trade. For tomatoes prepared or preserved the present 15 per cent ad valorem is boosted to 25 per cent.

Last year we also got from Mexican fields 1,066 cars of green peas, 460 cars of peppers, 436 cars of miscellaneous melons, 95 cars of cantaloupes and 24 cars of watermelons, besides 166 cars of mixed vegetables. Very little of all that truck should be allowed to forestall and regrade the market for American produce.

Truck growing and truck markets are expanding and offer relieving occupations to many farmers who are being crowded out of the staple fields. Therefore it would seem to be sane economy and profitable protection to shut off the cheap peon-produced competitive products coming out of Mexico.

THE PARTY NEEDS A POLICY.

Before the Women's Democratic Club at Washington Henry Minor, author of "The Story of the Democratic Party" and former national committeeman from Mississippi, made an address in full view with the party course often advised by The Constitution.

It was in strong deprecation of the disposition of the party's members in the congress who act upon the theory that it is brilliant and captivating politics to criticize anything republican in sight and to join in any insurgent flying-wedge to push the president in a hole.

Mr. Minor is as conscious as most other experienced democrats that such tactics get neither prestige nor power for a party seeking the confidence of the great American electorate. They are a waste of legislative privilege and real political opportunity; they impress public judgment as mere adjectives in obstruction and frustration for no wise end.

The age-long test of statesmanship has been its passion to "make things as they ought to be" and by that test the true policy of democrats in the minority in congress is not simply to pick worm-holes in republican policies, but to offer substitutes better in form and better calculated to conserve and advance the general welfare.

Mr. Minor suggested that democratic senators and representatives, instead of criticizing republican measures, should submit "full, complete and definite" substitute bills showing exactly what the democrats would enact if they were in power.

In less than twelve months the democrats of the nation will be called upon to align themselves against the republicans in 32 states of the Union that will elect senators and in 435 districts, including every square foot of the states in which representatives are to be chosen.

To what common standard of policy will they rally? To what slogan of democratic promise will they respond? And to what different and more desirable measures than those of republican proposal will they invite the voters of the nation?

So far the democrats in the congress, with a full warrant to conceive and get into consensus upon a definite democratic policy, have done nothing to that end. Their milling around, practically aimless and leaderless, is not inspiring—it is pitiable!

This thing of trips around the world on the installment plan is appealing, but suppose you fell down on your installment somewhere near Saravak or Zwijndrecht?

Piano manufacturers and salesmen in convention declared that three out of every four pianos are out of tune. We thought the percentage was even greater.

The latest thing-a-month scheme is that of neckties. As books are selected by writers, it is expected the neckties will be selected by a gang of lynchers.

Dr. Gregory, with a series of models, shows us how we changed from fish to man in a million years, yet we can change from man to a sucker in a few minutes.

Walter Hagen played a round of golf with the Prince of Wales, proving that golf is the most democratic of all our sports.

A man is to push a peanut up Pike's Peak with his nose, showing how badly our education is neglected.

A value of $22,000,000 has been placed on the White House. No wonder there is such a scramble to get it!

The National Automobile Association shows more cars are being made now than ever before. That's natural. More are being wrecked.

Congressman Michaelson has placed a new value on brother-in-law.

The fellow who essays to push a peanut up Pike's Peak with his nose will have a piker's beak if he does it.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

"Whisky From Penna."

Mr. Hoover is known to intend to energize and improve the methods of the administration in Washington. Reports from there show that already he has broken various precedents and that further breakages are probable. To change some customs, however, may prove difficult for even him, since they have survived a full hundred years, notably at the White House. As the Times newspaper of London recalls, its issue of April 8, 1829, published this except from a New York paper: "General Jackson continues to receive at his lodgings, strangers, citizens, members of congress, etc., without distinction of party. He also gives, occasionally, large dinner-parties, which are the more acceptable to our gourmands as canvas backs, venison and champagne were becoming scarce at Gadsby's after the retreat of the New York anti-slavery committee. The general is not likely to lack stores for the maintenance of the republican hospitality of the palace. His supplies are daily coming in from the Pennsylvania, in the shape of voluntary and gratuitous tribute. A great cheese, for instance, has been sent to him from New England; whisky from Pennsylvania; beef from New York; and the Kentuckians they say, are to send him a whole hog."

Pope and Avignon.

They are an imaginative people in Provence, and Avignon is just now enjoying and spreading a rumor that the fact that the pope is now free to leave Rome if he likes is to be made the occasion of restoring to him the famous palace, in which seven of his predecessors, one after the other, made Avignon instead of Rome the center of Catholic Church. A few things are in fact more unlikely than that the strictly secular government of the French republic will make such a present of a fortress which a fourteenth-century pope built to guard his treasure, when he was driven from Italy and came refuge on the banks of the Rhone. A few things are in fact more unlikely than that the strictly secular government of the French republic will make such a present of a fortress which a fourteenth-century pope built to guard his treasure, when he was driven from Italy and came refuge on the banks of the Rhone.

Blaming Uncle Sam.

Dry America is now being seriously blamed for having started a new branch of "wetness" in Europe, for according to a paper read before the American Medical Association, the health and morals of sections of society, which have not previously been so much affected by alcohol, have been greatly reduced among the working-classes, but it has just as steadily increased in what are known as "social" circles. It is not to ask friends to tea now invite them to cocktail parties. And there are cocktail parties, morning, afternoon and night. The cocktail is now being according to the professor, made by drinking a fashionable accomplishment. Another thing which is being fessed has insisted upon is that the vogue of the cocktail has spread to youths and girls, who are now taking lessons, simply in order to be "smart." Where did we hear all this before?

Health Talks
BY DR. WM. F. BRADYTHE TUESDAY RASH MYSTERY.

Did you read our own detective story entitled "The Prime Poisoning Case"? We published it here the other day.

But you must not deduce from that one case that a rash which breaks out on Tuesday and itches like the dew on Tuesday is necessarily due to primrose poisoning or to something eaten at Sunday dinner, even if the rash is confined to face, neck and hands.

There's a city fellow who stages a Tuesday rash quite regularly, and itched about his face and hands. He suffered for a year or more and never seemed to get a clue to the mystery. He even took a long absence and went away to a health resort for a rest, and sure enough, found considerable relief while he was away, but the very first Tuesday after the first Sunday after his return home the old dermatitis was blooming again and he was pretty sore about it. The doctors took a long time to find out what was the matter. He had been guided mainly by a bright chap who naturally knows more about doctoring than a doctor does—himself. He had, ever, the veterinarian cured the mule that had no faith in medicine and the doctor actually did hit on the source and nature of this city fellow's dermatitis only after a careful process of deduction by exclusion.

All the best detectives in the most famous type of literature are conceived by doctors, are they not?

In the course of his study of this the doctor narrowed it down to a regular habit the patient had of visiting his office for an hour or two Sunday. The doctor didn't go over the office on hand and knew what he was talking about. That's anatomy and rather boring now. A real detective observes his trousers and his eyes and uses his gray matter instead of his one followed the patient's movements one Sunday and finally pounced on the patient's Sunday paper. The patient was sensitive to some of the dye in the ink used for color printing. He was compelled, then, to give the doctor a list of some of the most content himself with the pure reading matter and such pictures as were printed in black. And that was the last of his dermatitis.

Odd, isn't it? The other day I dropped in on a medical friend who does a great deal of special work in cases of asthma, hay fever, hives, eczema, dermatitis and the like, allergy, as doctors call it. He observed a patient who had been treated by a regular doctor for a long time. Patient had come complaining of all the usual symptoms of hay fever. There was just one thing about his case that aroused suspicion. When she left her home near the water and traveled back into the country she seemed to be free of her trouble, and that is just the opposite of what ordinarily happens, for back in the open country more pollen is naturally flying about. So my friend was on his guard, and he put the patient and her family on their guard, and presently it developed that the minute hairs shed by these sunflowers were the cause of the trouble which had so perfectly mimicked hay fever. The doctor soon had the patient under his hand, and the patient again suffered from hay fever.

Why is it that you generally find a bald-headed man behind the drug counter selling hair tonics?

Man or Nation, an Injury To Any Part Injures the Whole
By Robert Quillen

One prolific cause of the troubles that beset our civilization is provincialism. In rural districts and in great cities, the average man thinks in terms of his own immediate welfare and feels no interest in the problems of his fellow citizens who live beyond his horizon.

The rural congressman thinks it his first duty to procure a federal building for his home district; the inland farmer thinks it a waste to spend money for battleships and shipyards, and the "big taxpayer" in the east resents the expenditure of public money to control western flood waters or fight agricultural pests.

There is no appropriation to help the publisher whose plant burns or the manufacturer who loses money. Why discriminate in favor of one class? The answer is that all classes eat.

America is a paradise for insect pests because it isn't their natural home. In their native homes they have natural enemies that hold them in check. That is Nature's little scheme of checks and balances to keep any one species from getting a monopoly.

And just as the great hoas of the tropics succumb to the intestinal worms of the victims they swallow, and our own wolverine or glutton is killed by the quills of the porcupine he gobbles, so every insect pest that threatens man's food supply has other pests that feed on him and destroy him.

But when these insect pests—these moths, weevils, worms and flies—are brought into America to live among the free, they are free indeed, for here they have no natural enemies.

They multiply by the billion and they cost America billions of dollars by destroying cotton, grain and fruit.

Government spends the taxpayers' millions each year to hold them in check, but this money is not spent to benefit the farmer alone. Despite every effort of science, the pests take their toll every year, thus increasing the cost of every man's food; and if government made no effort to destroy them, every tree would be barren and every field stripped, and the metropolitan editor would starve along with the farmer.

And to an equal extent the whole of America benefits when one portion of it is saved from flood, pest or crime.

The man who can't think in national terms isn't big enough to be a citizen.

America needs to learn that a submarine protects a cow pasture and that a cattle tick threatens the metropolitan banker.

YOUR BROADWAY AND MINE
BY WALTER WINCHELL.

New York, May 23.—When one of the town's composers made his low as a musical comedy producer last fall he realized sensibly that he probably did not know all there was to know about the theatrical business and engaged an old-time house and company manager to protect him from an imposing world.

One day a friend brought him to his office a manuscript for a dramatic play. The friend waited. He was called to the telephone and laid the manuscript on his desk. The old-time manager came in and took the manuscript. He turned it over to the first pages and then turned to the producer.

"Forty-five characters," he said, "are in the manuscript. When you have learned that you can't even afford to waste time reading scripts that call for big troops, you can know about the theatrical business and engaged an old-time house and company manager to protect him from an imposing world.

HOUSE TO VOTE ON TARIFF BILL

amendment seven years ago, except that it throws open to amendment no items except those touched by committee amendments.

In 1922, four items in controversy among the republicans were subjected to special votes in addition to committee amendments.

"The voice of the caucus," said Representative Wilson, of Connecticut, the republican leader, after the second session was over, "was that the ways and means committee is representative of the congress and the country as a whole and that after five months of consideration of the bill, its members were better qualified to offer amendments rather than throw the entire bill open to every Tom, Dick and Harry."

While the rule on its face would give every member the right to offer an amendment, the effect of it would be to deny this privilege to any except the members of the tariff-framing committee.

Seven years ago the republican committee occupied all of the time with its amendments before a final vote was reached. The republicans of the majority granted them to prevent the opposition from proposing changes. Because so much time was taken up on the committee amendments at that time, only three pages of the volume known as the Fordney-Cummins law were reported.

While most of the amendments reported today by the ways and means committee are intended merely to perfect the bill, many involve rate increases. These generally represent concessions to the farm group were seen in proposed amendments to give every member the right to offer a 10 per cent duty to raise the rate on butter, live cattle, dried skinned milk, white potatoes, figs, canned tomatoes, and certain grass seeds.

Plas of New England shoe manufacturers and leather tanners of the west recognized in amendments to levy duties of 20 per cent on leather boots and shoes, and rates ranging from 12 to 30 per cent on leather, also some on the free list.

Another amendment affecting the proposed new rayon schedule was described as restoring the protection accorded rayon in the silk schedule on an existing law. The pending bill had been interpreted as lowering the average protection given rayon now, by about 8 per cent.

Whether the proposed amendments to the agricultural schedule were sufficient to satisfy the farm group was not disclosed. The republican committee did not meet requests which had been advanced for higher duties on cash and blackstrap molasses, for making tapices and sags, wool, free, building materials also were left open for amendment.

An indication of determined moves against the flexible provisions of the bill by the republican committee was made by Representative Beck, republican, Pennsylvania, was seen in an announcement by Representative Garner, republican, Ohio, that he would seek to recommit the measure for incorporation of his plan of a tariff-finding board of four, responsible to congress.

Garner's plan would repeal the flexible provisions authorizing the tariff to change rates and is designed to eliminate revision of a tariff by permitting congress to make piecemeal changes.

The more important amendments which the republican committee will offer to the bill call for a raise in the rates on live cattle to 2 cents a pound on cattle weighing under 800 pounds, and 2 cents above that weight. Existing rates, undisturbed in the bill are 1 1/2 cents under 1,050 pounds and 2 cents above that figure.

Butter and butter substitutes would be raised to 14 from 12 cents; white potatoes to 75 from 50 cents; hulled and cracked corn to 25 from 20 per cent; dried skinned milk and dried buttermilk to 2 1/2 from 1 1/2 cents a pound; and onions to 12 from 10 cents a pound.

The increase to 2 1/2 cents a gallon on blackstrap molasses for distilling purposes would be wiped out and the rate restored to 1-6 of a cent as at present.

Figs would be raised to 4 cents a pound from 2 and preserved figs to 40 from 35 per cent ad valorem. Blue grass and tall oat seed would be changed to 5 cents instead of 2 cents a pound.

CRESWELL TELLS OF BRIBE IN TRIAL OF LIGGETT JUROR

Nashville, Tenn., May 23.—(AP)—

Rainey M. Creswell, now under indictment on a charge of agreeing to extort money from Walter Liggett, defendant in a trial for the murder of Turney Cunningham, to be paid to B. P. Osburn, juror in Liggett's second trial, provided Osburn would hang the jury, testified regarding the transaction this afternoon in Osburn's trial on a charge of accepting a bribe.

It told Osburn there was money in it for him, he said, and, clearing Osburn agreed to hang the jury while he was to see Walter Liggett and get as much money as possible for Osburn.

Creswell said that after Osburn was accepted as a juror and the Liggett trial began to come to the court room and sat behind Liggett several times, a signal to Osburn that he "all fixed."

Just what he wanted to tell the truth, Creswell said, concluding his testimony. He will resume the stand tomorrow morning.

THREE ARE HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS; DRIVER ARRESTED

Mrs. W. H. Carter and Mrs. Eula Barrett, both of 2 1/2 Lingo way, were injured in a car accident early Thursday night for cuts and bruises received when the automobile in which they were riding collided with an automobile on Marietta street and north avenue. A case of reckless driving was made against James Kendrick, of 737 Peachtree street, who was arrested by Patrolman Wiley Kendrick released after posting $100 bond.

Brook 7, of 1247 Lucile avenue, was treated at Grady hospital Thursday afternoon for injuries sustained by an automobile accident. Details of the accident were not given hospital attaches and police have no report on it.

MORROW REACHES LAREDO GUARDED BY GIL ESCORT

Laredo, Texas, May 23.—(AP)—

Accompanied by 20 soldiers from the staff of President Portes Gil of Mexico, Dwight W. Morrow, United States ambassador to Mexico, reached here late today from the Mexican capital.

Although the ambassador said he was making a "vacation trip" home, he gave the impression that he had returned to the United States for the marriage of his daughter, Mrs. Morrow, to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh. The soldiers on the special car, he said, were sent by the Mexican government "merely as courtesies."

Although Mr. Morrow told newspaper men he was "not to be quoted on any matters of state," he said the marriage of his daughter and the filer of New York-to-Paris fame "will take place while I am on this trip north."

He said he would go directly to his home at Englewood, N. J., without visiting Washington. He declined to discuss the Mexican revolution. The rebels frequently have attacked Mr. Morrow and his policies. The opinion was expressed here that the soldiers might have been on the car to protect the ambassador against a possible attack since conditions still are unsettled in portions of Mexico.

Two High Soviet Officials Executed On State Order

Moscow, May 23.—(AP)—

Two high soviet officials and a professor at the Leningrad Mining institute have been executed by the state political administration for "counter-revolutionary" activity, an official communique announced today.

The men executed were Von Meck and Valchick, both of whom were recently officials of the commissariat of communications, and Palchinsk, late professor at the Leningrad Mining institute. Others implicated in the same activity were sentenced to various terms of imprisonment.

The communique stated that "the state political department has discovered counter-revolutionary organizations in the railways, transport and gold and platinum industries, which were seeking to overthrow the soviet power by acts of political sabotage and organization with the aid of foreign complicity."

after that conference I should not say anything further."

In this letter it also was stated that the group of officers asked the conference so that a full disclosure of all facts could be made. It was also stated that the governor and adjutant-general would not entertain a desire for these resignations if they had all the facts before them. The letter was sent in a conciliatory tone and it is expected that the conference Friday will bring the controversy close to a settlement.

FARM RELIEF PROBLEM GOES TO COMMITTEE

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—

With no immediate agreement over export debentures in sight, further efforts to unravel the farm relief tangle in which congress finds itself will be made tomorrow by the conference committee appointed by the senate and senate to work out an agreement.

How long the conferees will continue to negotiate is still problematical as those from each side of the capitol maintained today that they had as yet no intention of meeting the views of the other.

The senate conferees are insisting that the house have some sort of roll call on the debenture plan. The house members have declined to ask leaders of their branch to order one.

The most recent attempt to conciliate, by which the house was asked to vote on the tariff bill now under discussion there, was considered to have fallen through, for the senate active Garner, of Texas, the democrat leader, made known that he would refuse to assent to the bill unless the way and means committee with instructions to include the debenture section.

Debate Plan Up. Garner said he was not opposed to offering the debenture plan as an amendment to the tariff bill but as indications were that amendments would be limited, it was considered such a move would not be possible. Democratic leaders have taken the position that insurances of the senate are an opportunity to move recommendations some tariff issue should be decided upon on which the party could muster a maximum of support as well as draw strength from the republican side.

Committee members of the conference have been asking that the conferees proceed with a discussion of minor differences in the farm bills passed separately by the two houses and will ask again at tomorrow's meeting that this be done. It is their opinion that the debenture controversy should be left to the conferees, as members have been obdurate on the ground that assurances first must be given that the debenture section will be eliminated.

Farm Board Troublesome

One of the compromises the committee will have to reach is the composition of the farm board. The house will provide for a board of six members while the senate for twelve. The senate bill does not give the president power to fix the salary of the chairman whereas the house bill does. The opinion of some conferees was that the senate probably would provide for a board of nine members at a salary of $12,000 a year.

Other differences in the two bills concern the rate of interest to be charged for loans to co-operatives and stabilization of prices and administrative features of the operations of these agencies.

NEW SUB ESCAPE DEVICE WORKABLE AT 302-FOOT DEPTH

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—

Tests of the new submarine escape device, "the lung," have demonstrated its practicality in escape from a submarine helpless at a depth of 302 feet.

The navy department announced today that tests, made in the Washington navy yard, proving that the device proved pressure could be withstood in the tank to correspond with water at a depth of 302 feet. None of the officers left any ill effects.

The lung was used in actual escape from the rebuilt S-4 from a depth of 200 feet off Key West last month. Inasmuch as the S-4 was constructed by the navy department, 200 feet depth, tests of the lung in escape from greater depths necessarily were made in the diving tank. New construction of a tank, it was planned by the navy department, tends toward greater test depths for submarines.

Georgians Urge Extension Of New Air Route to Florida Via Augusta and Savannah

Vinson and Edwards Give Support to Project, Urging Recommendation of Route.

Washington, May 23.—With representatives of the various cities in attendance, hearings were held at the postoffice department today on the proposed air mail route from Richmond or Greensboro to Jacksonville by way of Augusta and Savannah and points in North and South Carolina. The hearings were before the new interdepartmental committee on airways, recently formed at the suggestion of President Hoover for the purpose of promoting the extension of the civil airways system of the United States.

Sensors W. J. Harris and Walter F. George, of Georgia, together with members of the state congressional group, appeared in behalf of Augusta and Savannah. Each called attention to the important benefit which they said would be derived through the establishment of the proposed route and promised that there would be a great development of the two Georgia cities included on the line.

Favored by Georgians.
Representative Carl Vinson, serving the Augusta district, and Representative Charles G. Edwards, of Savannah, gave their vigorous support to the project and strongly urged the committee to recommend the route.

The proposed new airway, it was pointed out, is designed to serve cities of the south which are not now located on existing air mail routes. From Richmond or Greensboro, the route would cover Winston-Salem, High Point, Raleigh, Columbia, Charleston, Savannah and Augusta before terminating at Jacksonville. At the meeting today the possibility of having the route touch at Brunswick was also discussed, since it is proposed to follow the Georgia coast line from Savannah to Jacksonville.

If the route is established it is contemplated that the additional auxiliary lines will be established in the future serving other cities in Georgia, including Macon and Columbus, linking up with other projects under consideration. In presenting Augusta's bid for a place on the route, Representative Vinson stressed the advantages the city offers as a winter resort and declared that it is a haven of rest for many of the navy fliers on their trips to the south.

Representative Edwards told the committee that the city of Savannah had erected an airport containing 740 acres less than four miles distant from the postoffice and fully equipped to take care of all aircraft that might be handled through it. He said that Augusta is also in need of airport service.

In addition to the Georgia members, a score or more of congressmen from the other states affected attended the meeting, as well as civic leaders in the several cities which would be on the route.

Demand for Service.
Henry Howard, representing the Augusta (Ga.) Chamber of Commerce, said that there is a great demand for the air mail service from manufacturing industries and from bankers in his city as well as from winter tourists. He thought that the government would greatly benefit through increased use of the air mail if Augusta is placed on a direct route.

Harold Pittman, contractor of the New York-Atlanta air mail route, declared that his company is doing its utmost to give the people of the south an efficient air mail service and that it contemplates providing passenger service this fall. He stated that more frequent service will be necessary if the greatest benefits are to be derived in connection with passenger service.

Mr. Pittman said it was a long venture so far as his company is concerned, and it has no intention of giving such service generally throughout the south. The interdepartmental committee which conducted the hearings today is composed of the various undersecretaries in charge of aviation activities and is headed by Assistant Secretary of Commerce William P. MacCracken and Second Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving Glover, chief of air mail.

R. E. MARTIN AWARDED EMORY CADET HONORS

Final Review Is Staged by R. O. T. C. Cadet at Emory University.

Competitive drill and announcement of promotions and assignments for the year 1929-30 marked the final review of the Emory university R. O. T. C. unit Thursday afternoon on the parade ground. At conclusion of the afternoon maneuvers Major R. T. Taylor, of the 26th infantry, the Emory P. M. S. and T. was presented with parting tokens of friendship from members of the battalion by Dr. W. A. Smart, dean of the university.

R. E. Martin was awarded the gold medal which is annually given to the best drilled cadet and the silver medal which goes to the runner-up was received by Virlyn Moore.

Receives Lynch Cup.
Company "A," of which Charles Bramlett is captain, received the Lynch cup, given by the officers of the 122nd infantry of the Georgia National Guards in honor of Major Lynch, the first P. M. S. and T. at Emory. Captains Robinson, Nicholson and Dilts, of Georgia Tech, reviewed the companies and graded them for this honor. Captain Bramlett also was awarded the honor graduate distinction.

Cadet Major W. H. Tuller received the distinction of having rendered the most service to the battalion. The rifle team was also recognized.

Additional color to the occasion was given by the presence of the sponsors of the Emory battalion: Miss Isabel Handy, Miss Anne Ridley, Miss Meador Goldsmith, Miss Harriet Wynne, Miss Hazel Wolfe, Miss Jane Shelby and Miss Margaret Arnold.

Dr. W. A. Smart made a brief speech of commendation at the conclusion of the review of the battalion which he expressed the esteem of the university for Major Taylor and the regret that he is leaving the fields of service, and tendered him the gifts from the battalion. A silver pitcher was the gift of the battalion and the three cadet majors, under Major Taylor gave him a silver zobel. The cadet majors were: W. H. Tuller, W. H. Jones and W. A. Grove.

Forewell Address.
In the final orders for the year Major Taylor stated: "The loyalty of the officers and non-commissioned officers of the regular army on duty here, the friendship and support of the administration, and the good sportsmanship and wholehearted backing of the student body making up the rank and file of the battalion have made this detail one of the happiest of my army experiences."

"In leaving the unit in the hands of Captain Duane the new P. M. S. and T., whose sincere interest in the welfare needs no comment here, the undersigned is well assured that the Emory battalion will carry on to a still higher standard."

Following are the promotions and assignments for 1929-30:
To be cadet major: Theodore R. Faxon, cadet first sergeant, commanding the battalion.
To be cadet captains: Cadet First Sergeant William N. Tumlin, assigned to Company "B" and Cadet First Sergeant Harry M. Pezler, assigned to Company "C." Cadet Color Sergeant Robert Sleda, Company "C." Cadet First Sergeant Charles E. Downman, Company "D."

To be cadet first lieutenant and adjutant: Cadet Sergeant Alan B. Ford, assigned to staff.
To be cadet first lieutenants: Robert A. Moncrief, assigned to Company "A," Gabriel G. Gilbert, Company "A," John C. Weaver, Company "B," Charles O. Murphy, Company "D," Turner O. Benton, unassigned; Albert Evans, unassigned.

MEET IN DRIVE
Mercer Law Building Campaign Nears Finish.

Macon, Ga., May 23.—(Special).—With only $1,772.50 needed before completion of Macon's goal of $25,000 as half of the amount required to erect a new building for the law school of Mercer university, committees canvassing the city to secure the amount will meet at 10 o'clock Monday morning at the chamber of commerce.

Citizens in other parts of the state have subscribed $25,000. T. E. Ryals, Macon lawyer, promised $12,500 on condition that an equal amount be raised in the city.

A new building will be essential for the Mercer Law school to maintain its A-1 rating with the American Bar Association and the American Association of Law Schools. It was said. It is expected that a contract for the new structure will be let before the trustees meet here on June 3.

La Follette Dares Senate To Banish Him If He Bares Executive Session Secrets

Congressmen Play Action of Committee in Barring Newspapermen for Printing Details.

Washington, May 23.—(P)—The senate was challenged today by Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, to employ its rule of expulsion on him if he tells his constituency how he votes on nominations in executive sessions.

The Wisconsin senator issued his defiance as he denounced the senate rules committee for investigating newspapermen instead of members of the senate for the publication recently by several newspapermen of a roll call purporting to show the vote on confirmation of Irvine Lenroot as a federal judge.

The speech was the signal for another round of discussion of the senate's indignation over the constant publication of proceedings in its executive sessions. The crowded press gallery joined in the laughter as Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, warned the rules committee that it would likely have to "gate itself" for "leaks" from its committee if it holds the proposed investigation of newspapermen in executive session.

Privilege of Floor.
Earlier in the day, Senator La Follette offered an amendment to the rules to provide that representatives from the press associations be accorded the privilege of the floor. This courtesy was withdrawn from the press associations yesterday on demand of the Wisconsin senator after the rules committee had voted unanimously to deny the privilege of the floor to the United News Association. No action was taken on the La Follette amendment.

The United News Association was one of the news agencies carrying the purported Lenroot roll call. Paul Mallon, who signed the story carried by the rules committee Monday. The roll call has been described as "inaccurate." Because of the charges of inaccuracy, Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, today asked unanimous consent that the roll call be made public but Senator Hastings, republican, Delaware, objected.

La Follette's Tirade.
After Senator La Follette denounced the rules committee today for calling newspapermen for investigation and demanded that it first summon the members of the senate in its inquiry to determine who gave information about the Lenroot roll call, Senator Harris, democrat, Mississippi, a member of the rules committee, offered a resolution directing the rules committee to call before it each senator "for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not he divulged any secrets of the senate in connection with the confirmation of Irvine Lenroot."

Senator Norrell, republican, Kentucky, objected to immediate consideration of the resolution. Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, joined in the debate. He recalled ethics of "this so-called profession" in speaking of newspapermen. "I committed some offense, I suppose," he said, "by the remark I made the other day regarding the so-called ethics of the newspaper profession. I do not think that ethically there is anything very admirable in joining with the senator in violating the rules of the senate, and flaunting them, but ethically the action of the newspaperman is not comparable in its meanness with that of the senator himself, who violates the rules of this body, and then hides behind the newspaperman, and does not dare to disclose his identity. That, in my judgment, represents infinitely greater culpability, and I feel sure that all members of the committee on rules share that opinion, that the real culprit in this matter is not the newspaperman, but the senator who is the source of the information."

A. P. Protest Ruling.
In a letter to Vice President Curtis, which was read in the senate, the Washington bureau of the Associated Press formally protested against the ruling by Mr. Curtis yesterday under which the privilege of access to the senate floor would be denied representatives of the Associated Press, as well as of the United News Association. Abolishment of the senate press gallery was demanded by Senator Hefflin, democrat, Alabama, because, he said, the newspapermen "buckle to the Roman Catholic machine."

He declared no newspaperman had any right "to walk about the floor of this great body," and shouted again and again "keep them out" and "they should not come in here."

Chairman Moses, of the rules committee, in responding to the demand of Senator La Follette that senators be called before the committee, said he believed the committee would follow that course after it had interrogated the newspapermen.

"The committee believes there has been an infraction of the rules," declared Moses, "and it believes it is the duty of the committee to investigate it."

Accounts Recorded.
Senator La Follette read into the record the accounts of various newspapermen of the recent proceedings in executive session on the confirmation of Lenroot. He said they were just as culpable as the newspapermen who published a purported roll call of that vote.

Referring to his asserted right to disclose his vote to his constituency, La Follette said: "If that be a violation of an obligation of a senator in this body, then I invite the rules committee or the chamber itself to take cognizance of the fact and I am perfectly willing to fight out the issue on the floor of the senate as to whether a man is more solemnly obligated under the constitution to his constituency in telling how he stands upon an important public matter or whether he is more obligated to the rules of the senate. If this body should decide that is a ground for expulsion I welcome the submission of that issue to the electorate of the state of Wisconsin."

A. P. PRESIDENT BERATES ACTION.
Washington, May 23.—(United News).—The action of the senate rules committee in barring the United News from the senate floor was in reality an attempt to intimidate press associations and Washington correspondents, the Washington Star, published by Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press, said editorially today.

"The senate committee on rules has

YOUTH'S ACT EXPLAINED BY POEM, LEFT IN BOOK

New Orleans, May 23.—(P)—The stepped lines of his favorite poem, "Somebody Else," offered an explanation of why little 12-year-old James LeBreton, depressed schoolboy, left at home last night alone to study for a history examination, hanged himself with a clothes bag cord.

Of a very religious nature and described by Coroner George F. Roeling as in the age of "melancholy youth," the little boy was found in his parents' darkened home, the body suspended by the neck, his head in a clothes bag, and the cord jammed between a door and the sill of a clothes closet.

James had asked to go automobile-riding with the family after dinner but was told he must remain at home and study for his history examination today. He was left seated at the dining table with the history text open before him.

On their return two hours later the father, Joseph LeBreton, his wife and James' two step brothers, had to force an entrance through a window. A light was switched on and something in a rear bedroom caught the attention of Mrs. LeBreton. She screamed. The father took down the lifeless form and summoned a priest.

FIRST OF FLORIDA TAX PLAN UNITS PASSES IN SENATE
Tallahassee, Fla., May 23.—(P)—The first unit of Governor Carlton's plan to revise the state tax system passed the senate, 26 to 7, today, amid a last minute rush from all parts of the chamber to offer minor alterations.

Passage of the bill, which provides for a state depository for retirement of $100,000,000 of county and special district road and bridge bonds, was the culmination of a compromise effected during the past few days between opposing senate factions.

and the coroner. Dr. Roeling decided the boy had killed himself.

Little James, during their absence, had donned a woman's corset under his overalls and had put on a woman's dress. Apparently he had put the clothes bag over his head, drawn a slip knot tight, then reached out and slammed the closet door on the cord and ended his life by jumping off a chair.

The poem the youth had copied on a scratch pad from somewhere was left in the opened history book. The last two verses, heavily thumb-stamped, were:

"Somebody else was left alone
Beneath an olive tree;
And nobody cared for somebody else
More than they do for me."

"But away past life's dull waning
Across the crystal sea;
Somebody else I shall love
For all eternity."

Chosen by several Florida women's clubs to typify the American girl at the last spring festival in Havana, Cuba, Miss Peters is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peters.

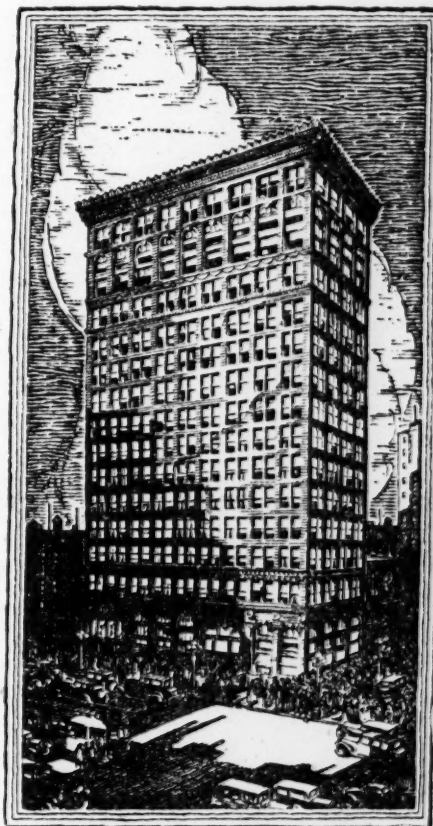

She attended Randolph-Macon Women's college, of Virginia, before taking up her teaching in Miami. She dances, swims, hikes, hunts, plays games and her main ambition is to teach children the spoken word.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, five points up at 18.50. Sales, 600; 40,000 bales.

NEW YORK, MAY 23.—(P)—

Early declines were followed by a recovery in the cotton market today on trade buying and covering which was supposed to include some price fixing in May, while buying of later months was not influenced by any uncertainty as to weather developments later in the week. July contracts sold up from 18.47 to 18.60 and closed at 18.60. With the general market closing firm, one point lower to seven higher.

The opening was easy at a decline of 10 to 12 points with the active months selling 12 to 18 points net lower during the early trading liquidation combined with some local and commission house selling. Offerings were evidently prompted by the declines in Liverpool and the reports of clearing weather in the south, but they were quite readily absorbed around 19.25 for May and 18.45 for December. The decline to a little under the 18-20-cent level for July and later deliveries, seemed to bring in some local buying on an idea that the technical position entitled the market to rally.

Trading became comparatively quiet on the advance which followed, and after recovery to about yesterday's closing quotation, the market moved slightly on a favorable view of the detailed weather report offerings were light, however, and prices firmed up again in the late trading with May advancing to 19.45 and December to 18.67, or about 17 to 19 points above the low level of the morning.

Closing quotations were within 2 or 3 points of the best on most positions. There was considerable further selling from near to late months, but without much change in the differences. At the close May was about 70 points above July compared with a premium of 81 points at the close of the previous day.

Local traders who study the weather map, said that prospects for general clearing weather in the south, except for possible showers in the southwest, but apprehensions were expressed in some quarters that heavy showers conditions in that quarter might become more pronounced by the end of the week.

Private cables reported liquidation in Liverpool on more favorable weather reports from the south. The Liverpool market will be closed on Friday and Saturday. Exports today, 1,021, making 7,505,452 for this season. Port receipts 4,454. United States port stocks 1,606,794.

TRADE BUYING BOOSTS MARKET.

New Orleans, May 23.—(P)—Early declines were followed by a recovery in the cotton market today when shorts covered and the trade bought on the improved technical position of the market, strong in stocks and call money. July contracts rallied from 18.47 to 18.60 and closed at 18.60, or one point net up. The general market closed steady, one point lower to one point higher. The market opened easy in sympathy with disappointing Liverpool cables and first transactions showed declines of 7 to 11 points.

Map indications of better weather in the belt with milder temperatures encouraged selling after the start which ultimately carried July to 18.47, October 18.29, and December 18.38, or 15 to 16 points below the previous close.

Offerings were absorbed at the decline and good trade buying and covering developed, probably influenced by the belief that the technical position of the market had been strengthened as a result of the recent heavy liquidation of the long interests, both here and in New York.

Prices were maintained on the upgrade for the remainder of the session in sympathy with the strength of stocks and easier call money, reaching the highs of the day in final trading. At the top July sold at 18.65, October 18.47 and December 18.50, last year 7.165.

THE UNKISSED BRIDE

By BERTA RUCK

SYNOPSIS.

Joy Harrison, living in London and working for Dr. Rex Travers in Harley street, is crushed by a letter from her fiancé, Geoffrey Ford, a well known novelist, asking to be released from the engagement. Preoccupied with her own trouble, she fails to notice that Dr. Travers seems troubled, too. Towards the end of the day he tells her that he has just lost a great deal of money through an unscrupulous solicitor and he will be forced to give up his house in Harley street.

Dr. Locke, a friend, tells Rex that he has just been offered a practice with a comfortable villa in the south of France which he cannot take on, and he suggests that he recommend Rex for it. The only hitch to the plan is that they want a married doctor and Rex is a bachelor. To his partner's suggestion that he marry and take up the new post Rex turns a deaf ear. Joy, who has been listening to the doctor's colloquy, suddenly sees a method of escape for her and she asks Dr. Travers if he will marry her on business arrangement. The doctor is stunned by her suggestion and finally asks her why she made it. She tells him that she is badly in need of another job, although her real reason is to have Geoffrey read of her engagement to another man.

The doctor broods over the change his altered circumstances will have on his young nephew and ward, Percival, a fine, bright boy. Finally he decides to take Joy at her word and they enter into an agreement to marry on a strictly business basis.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

TO LOVE, HONOR AND OBEY.

Travers gave one of those non-committal grunts which, as his mother remarked, not without impudence, are one of the privileges of being a man. For if a woman asked a question, he was to take out a match and light a cigarette, produce that "Mm," then blow out that match and say no more, would it be considered an answer, either adequate or polite? Certainly not. Men, however, get away with it—constantly, madly.

"Yes," I said, "it's a good thing that she's got you, then?"

Rex Travers said, "Hm! She might be the idea of being rushed, even—by me."

"Pooh, dear, pooh! If you're thinking Joy would mind the wedding being so soon, don't worry. It's not instant. Not for another instant need you worry. The child will be glad."

Travers gazed at the one woman whom he did not regard as a mechanism. "Mother, what makes you seem so sure? Why should you think—"

"I don't think; I know. The poor child has been simply flurried. Overwhelmed. Overworked. I think, and your fault. I know you have not meant to be inconsiderate. But really, what with all these letters about villas and patients and passports and Percival's arduous career, and everything else, the poor child has been worn to a shadow. I don't want to interfere or to gnat in, but I know something was worrying her and for a moment I really got such a terrible fright. I thought she might not be wanting to get married after all. I asked her, straight out, upon my word."

"You didn't? Upon my word," said Rex Travers, smoothing his hand back over his blond hair. "It seems my fate to be surrounded by entanglements. What with old Locke, the boy and now you—glad I did it, very."

"Because nobody would tell me anything that I wanted to know, and now I do know for certain. She said, 'Of course I want to get married in a tone there was absolutely no mistaking. She agreed that the long engagement would be terrible.'"

"She did, did she?" muttered Rex Travers. At that moment he told himself he could not afford the luxury of considering the girl's feelings. What he had to consider was her use to his career and to the boy. (Although he was a man usually sincere with himself, there was, too, a factor he did not acknowledge because he was not conscious of it. At the bottom of his consciousness lurked masculine pride, making the secret, silent demand: "What leads this girl to suppose that I am not to be looked upon as a man?")

At that moment, down by the side of the Thames, Geoffrey Ford was tearing up one letter he had just written to Joy and planning a better way of putting it.

"So the sooner you are married and settled down happily together on the Riviera the better!" summed up Granny Travers. "What do you say, Rex?"

This time Rex Travers actually gave her a prompt and definite answer. "I think you're right." He thrust Miss Simpet's letter back into his case. "I shall go off now and see about that special license."

Mrs. Travers, little knowing to what events she was now hurrying her son, said happily, "Do, dear!"

That hour before the wedding is often enough one of pain for even a satisfactorily plighted pair; fortunately no census has to be taken of those who, given the chance, would at the last moment back out.

Not on that list in any case would you have found the name of Miss Joy Harrison; no, not that of her bridegroom, Dr. Rex Travers. Both of them were feverishly eager to get the marriage over. Notice, each of them thought of it in these terms. Over! An end to this grotesque hell of an engagement. An end to the intrusions of other people. An end to all the questions and the nervous dread lest relatives and friends might think we were not doing much with our role of the happy engaged. Hurray for the finish of it! Hurray for the getting away to France! Married people don't attract the fierce limelight that beats upon the betrothed!

"Aren't you going to touch your egg, miss, that's fresh as fresh?" Mrs. Cope, Joy's landlady, hovered maternally above the breakfast table—her last breakfast in her Chelsea rooms. "Come, this won't do. Have to keep up your strength as I always say, be it a wedding or be it a funeral. All your things packed and ready? That's good. So you've plenty of time. Nice going-away dress, too. Not going to taste my homemade marmalade neither? Dear, dear. For the last week you haven't taken no more than would nourish a sparrow. But there, getting somebody to look after you now, he won't let you play none of these tricks with your inside."

"What's the time?" asked Joy. Critically she remembered the terrible play, "Eight O'Clock," with Russell Thorndike's magnificent grim performance as the condemned murderer. That man had clung, up to the end, to all this. I might have known he wouldn't. I've had my last letter to my unmarried name!" thought Joy Harrison (and there was nothing to tell her of just one more letter addressed to that unmarried name of hers which was not too far off, either, which was in the hands of a landlady in the old-fashioned scented passage of a house opposite, who said, "No one here by that name!")

It was Granny Travers who had considered that a registry office was "sordid, dear, sordid. I shouldn't feel as if you were really married." But as you like, whereupon her son, Rex, had done as she liked, and had arranged for the wedding to take place at Old Chelsea church, of a relieving stone's throw of Joy's rooms and set in the midst of so many picturesque London features—the barges gliding slowly down the Thames beyond, the tiling pine trees of Chelsea embankment, the cello gulls, the clockhouse, the other houses where celebrities have lived or do live, and the red-coated, white-whiskered pensioners that pass slowly up and down the path of the Royal hospital gardens.

No one was to be present, except Granny Travers, Percival Arthur as a matter of course, and though at first there had been no thought of inviting him, Dr. Saxon Locke, "Naturally I am coming. I should hope so! How like Rex, that grateful hound, to bag my car to take the luggage and all of them to Victoria and then to leave me out of anything that's to be seen. Who else did you want to give the bride away?"

Now here was his big blue car purring up to the door of the rooms. It stopped. Out loomed the Decoy Elephant wearing in the buttonhole of his gray frock coat the white carnation appropriate to the bride's father.

"Good morning, daughter. Not run away yet, have you? Good, good. I've just been remembering the old verse: 'You may carve it on his tombstone, You may cut it on his card, That a young man married Is a young man married.'"

"Does that apply to a young woman, too?" Joy asked with a Spartan smile as she took her seat in the car, but Dr. Locke assured her that in this case—only in this case—he didn't consider it would be true of either; that was what he noted in her, and here with took up, from under the seat and handed to the girl in her light traveling suit, a large, blatantly advertising, undulating bouquet of orange blossoms and white heather.

This the dazed Joy held during the wedding service which, Rex Travers had seen about that, had been cut down to the minimum. All vague and dizzy as were her feelings now, her voice was clear and steady as she pronounced the lines, "To love, honor and obey."

Frank Speer Considers Ring Career; Will Box on A. A. C. Card

GOD PLANS TO GO AFTER BUNNY BRIEF

SPEER TO MEET BILL RUFF ON A. A. C. CARD

Tubby Walton Turned Fight Scout, Finds Real
Heavyweight Prospect

Frank Speer, former Georgia Tech football star and one of the greatest tacklers ever produced in the south, is considering boxing as a career and has started training for his first appearance in the ring.

He will fight in the feature bout of the Atlanta Athletic Club's amateur show on June 19, the final card of the spring. The winner is expected to be declared the amateur heavyweight champion of the city.

Speer's opponent will be Bill Ruff, a potential champion who was discovered by Tubby Walton, famous purveyor of home-cooked food and friend of all the world.

Both Speer and Ruff have placed themselves in the hands of Jay Jarvis, boxing instructor at the A. A. C. They have made a very favorable impression and their fight is expected to be the sensation of the evening on June 19 when the card is presented.

MAY BECOME PRO.
Both men are considering the ring as a career. They will take their workouts slowly and attempt to discover if they have any boxing talent. If they show enough to justify their going ahead they will quit the amateur ranks for the professional game.

Ruff, who is suited by name and physique to the fight racket, weighs 221 pounds. By a strange coincidence that was Speer's weight when he started training.

Ruff looks a great deal like Jim Jeffries, the famous heavyweight of 20 years ago. He is six feet tall and despite his weight and height weighs only a number 8 shoe. His size and build make him an ideal prospect for an excellent heavyweight fighter.

SCOUT WALTON.

Jarvis, seeking a heavyweight match for his card of next month, drafted Tubby Walton as a fight scout. It was a new experience for the manager and umpire, but he bobbed up with what may become a real heavyweight contender.

"It came to me all at once when I saw him," said Tubby Walton. "He had been delivering milk to me for some time. When Jay Jarvis asked me to look out for a heavyweight fighter I thought of this boy right away. He is 20 years old, weighs 221 pounds and wears a number 8 shoe. I know he has the old courage because I heard about him taking a stick away from a man who was hitting him after the man had hit him in the head with it."

"His name and everything is just right. He won't have to change that name. Bill Ruff—that's a grand name for a fighter."

Tubby Walton is attending to the dietetic work in connection with seeing to it that the men have the proper food at Walton's restaurant.

GREAT BOUT.
"It should be a great fight," continued Tubby. "Frank Speer is a battler. Everyone knows he will fight. Both of them are already in training, moving around and what horses. It will be a great scrap."

Athletic club officials interested in the promotion of amateur boxing, which has been most successfully accomplished this spring, believe they have a real feature in the heavyweight match for next month.

Speer, who is not now connected with the university, is well-known in Atlanta as an exceptional athlete. He and Ruff should offer a real contest.

Jarvis will coach both men. If they care to continue he will coach them until they are able to decide whether or not they care to take up boxing as a profession.

"I am proud of my first effort as a boxing scout," said Tubby Walton. "My man looks like Jim Jeffries, and weighs 221 pounds delivered. Look out for him and Speer to put on a great bout. They are both good."

In addition to the heavyweight contest there will be other classes represented.

Training began Friday night. Jarvis, assisted by Coach Joe Bean, will hold classes each afternoon beginning at 5 o'clock. Any amateur in the city or state is invited to participate in the club's matches.

Richman Wins His Fifth Lap

Kent, Texas, May 23.—(AP)—Sam Richman, of New York, won his fifth consecutive lap in the cross-country marathon today, running the 56 miles between Pecos and Kent in 7 hours, 2 minutes and 2 seconds in spite of a broiling sun at one stage and a severe electrical storm at another. Giusto Umek, of Italy, was second, 11 minutes and 48 seconds behind the New Yorker.

One Thousand, One Golfers in Open

New York, May 23.—(AP)—One thousand and one golfers have entered the United States open championship, H. H. Ramsey, chairman of the U. S. G. A., announced today.

The qualifying test will be played over 18 courses throughout the country June 10. The tournament proper will be held at the Winged Foot Golf Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., June 27, 28 and 29.

No British professional entered. The entry list fell short of last year's total when 1,064 entered. The entry list closed Tuesday.

Wayward Boye, the Mental Marble, has just returned to town from Looeyville, where he has been serving as special investigator for the betting solicitor-general in the case of The People vs. Blue Larkspur.

Wayward's investigation showed plainly that it was tire trouble that delayed the Bradley colt. The case has been continued until after the Belmont stakes.

And now Wayward has been assigned to find out what is the matter with the Crackers.

In case the matter has been overlooked, the Crackers have skidded out of first division since they hit the road. They lost three out of four to Memphis. Just before leaving town the boys had lost three straight to Little Rock right here where folks could see them.

Hence the fresh set with Little Rock on Arkansas soil looks like anything but a gravy ride. Many experts predict that the home team will be in seventh place before they get home. That sounds terrible.

Wayward left last night by air mail for Little Rock and expects to have it all doped out by Saturday morning.

Stand by for his detailed report.

It may be something entirely different from any normal cause for a slump like poor pitching, poor sliding or poor drinking water.

Trust Wayward to get it right. Tomorrow morning. In The Constitution.

EXTRA, EXTRA.
The manager of Tot Wilson, young Southern welterweight, sends to this desk a newspaper clipping showing that his lad knocked out Irish Benny Cline in the second round last fall at Andrews, S. C.

This is the final rebuttal evidence in the argument as to which of these boys could hit harder.

The jury, however, has been discharged for shooting craps and no verdict can be rendered.

VERSUS ROUGH SPORTS.

A baby's skull was fractured by a reckless Nebraska croquet player, says a news item. The baby will recover and probably will follow some quiet restful sport like boxing.

MY CARD.
I see by the papers that Missouri football coaches have decided to give substitutes a card to deliver to the referee stating name and player to be replaced.

For instance: Beeler, a substitute guard will be sent in to replace Keeler. He will carry a card with him on which 'Beeler for Keeler' is written and present it to the referee.

This will relieve the possibility of mistakes when substitutes are sent out to replace one man and give the name of the wrong player. This happened more than once in Tech football last fall and no doubt occurs often on every gridiron.

THE ARGUMENT.
The plan is not without its advantages. The average substitute sent in with the score 35 to 0 to win the game for Alma Mater is so excited he cannot remember his own name let alone the name of the player whom he is to replace. Then the cards held by the referee will enable the official to keep absolute check on substitutions and determine whether the player is eligible to re-enter or not.

But the plan also has its disadvantages. It presupposes that the coach must be able to write. Legibly, I mean, under stress of excitement.

It also presupposes the referee must be able to read. If you have ever seen the handwriting of the average coach you will understand why the referee would have to be a qualified postoffice clerk to decipher the scrawl.

At the rate substitutions are made these days, a coach would have to have a secretary beside him to write visiting cards. And before the third quarter was up the referee would need a suitcase to hold his cards.

ADDED BURDEN.
Furthermore coaches would have to get busy and learn the names of all the players. This could be done with a few weeks steady work early in the season and with the high salaries paid coaches these days, there is no reason why they should complain about this extra duty.

Summing up the plan: The advantages outweigh the objections. There is nothing like being systematic about things.

Besides it would give coaches a great opportunity to write notes to the referee such as 'You big stiff, if you call another close one on us it will be too bad about next year.'

HORTON, OL' BOY.
Eight open tournaments in six months is the record of Horton-Smith, the Missouri young man whom golf critics called a morning glory.

Horton set fire to golf courses around the winter circuit, but they said he would be sunk overseas. When he finished far down the list in the British open he was hoisted. His return to winning form at St. Cloud sort of silenced the gallery.

After all Horton must be considered seriously in the national open. And there is no event under the sun that needs contenders more than this national open of ours, unless it be the national amateur.

U. S. Track Stars Miss English Meet

New York, May 23.—(United Press)—Because of a conflict in dates between the United States and English track and field championships no prominent American athletes will compete in the English meet at Stamford Bridge, London, July 5 and 6. The National A. A. U. championships will be held at Denver, Colo., July 3 and 4.

Chicago, May 23.—(AP)—Wisconsin will tackle Northwestern in their second big ten baseball engagement at Evanston Friday instead of Saturday, as was originally scheduled. The change in date was made so that the contest would not interfere with the finals of the big ten track and field championships Saturday.

HORSE GUARDS AND GEORGIA CLASH TODAY

Bulldogs Meet Local Four on McPherson Field
This Afternoon.

Collegiate polo is on the books for Atlantans this afternoon when a galloping quartet from the University of Georgia comes over from Athens to play the Governor's Horse Guards. The game is to be played at Fort McPherson this afternoon and not Saturday. The time is 3:30 o'clock.

Georgia, if you didn't know it, has an R. O. T. C. cavalry unit, one of the few such outfits in the country, and has produced many good riders. Finding themselves endowed with good horses and an army officer, Captain J. I. Lambert, who is well acquainted with the galloping game, the Bulldogs decided to organize a polo team.

They have been practicing steadily since last February and, according to all advance reports, the team is a good one and will give the Horse Guards a tough battle.

In some respects the battle this afternoon will be something of a Tech-Georgia battle, as there are a couple of Tech men playing on the Horse Guard team.

But it should be a good game, even though it is the first real one for Georgia. The boys know how to ride and having drilled intensely on the game for the past four months, should be in position to make a creditable showing.

The Horse Guards have been hard at work getting ready for their tilt this afternoon and will give the university team much to worry about. Following Friday's game, Saturday afternoon will see the horsemen at the horse show at Piedmont park and the Georgia alumni in the crowd.

Accommodations are being made for the handling of a large crowd at the fort this afternoon as it is probable that many of the Georgia alumni in Atlanta will wish to see their college in action in a new sport.

MAD HATTER WINS SECOND

Daughter of Mad Hatter
First in Belmont Bouquet Stakes.

By Orlo L. Robertson,
Associated Press Sports Writer.
New York, May 23.—(AP)—Mad Hatter, the Sage stable's two-year-old chestnut filly, chalked up the second victory of her brief racing career today as she won the Belmont stakes at Belmont park.

The filly's daughter of Mad Hatter had been out but once previous to her start today but that was all the experience she needed to whip a field of seven other fillies. The four and one-half furlongs were run down the Widener straightaway course in :53 flat. Mad Hatter not only netted her owner $5,100 but paid 4 to 1 to her backers.

The Jaded stable's Salty, odds-on favorite, finished second, losing by a head. Besides the main event scheduled by T. M. Cassidy's Astor stable, there were a number of other races. The first part of the afternoon, the Kentucky-bred chestnut filly won on the inside in the last furlong and won going away.

Otto Lehman's four-year-old Reigh Oiga, which carries none of the great success in the past last fall, upset the calculations when he won the Patterson Lane purse. J. Churchill Downs' Paul Bunyan was second and Sun God III, third.

The feature event at Aurora saw Isaac leading the parade of seven racers by five lengths to the wire. Know Me Gnome and Big Sing finished only noses apart for second and third positions, respectively.

Hanlon To Stage Card in Ellijay

Eddie Hanlon, who deserves much of the credit for the reviving of boxing in Atlanta, is entering upon other fields when he jaunts up to Ellijay Saturday night to promote the Young Jack Dempsey-Bobby Ward card. Showing of Young Jack Dempsey before a home audience has created an unusual amount of interest, declares Hanlon, and nothing less than a full house is expected.

Thirty rounds of boxing will be offered for the edification of the customers. Besides the main event scheduled for 10 rounds, an eight-round semi-final will bring together Sid Luc and Joe Allen. Luc is now prospering from a string of 12 straight wins, while Allen, who hails from New Orleans, has showed good in the gymnasium. This bout will rival the main go for real action. Battling Maddox and Homer Reid, lightweight, will step six rounds. Frankie Gray and Joey Levine opening the card for six rounds.

Wins Debut.
New York, May 23.—(AP)—Pete Myers, San Francisco middleweight, made a sensational debut in Madison Square Garden tonight in a roughhouse 10-round draw with Tony Vaccarello. New York slugger, Myers weighed 156 1/2; Vaccarello 150 1/4.

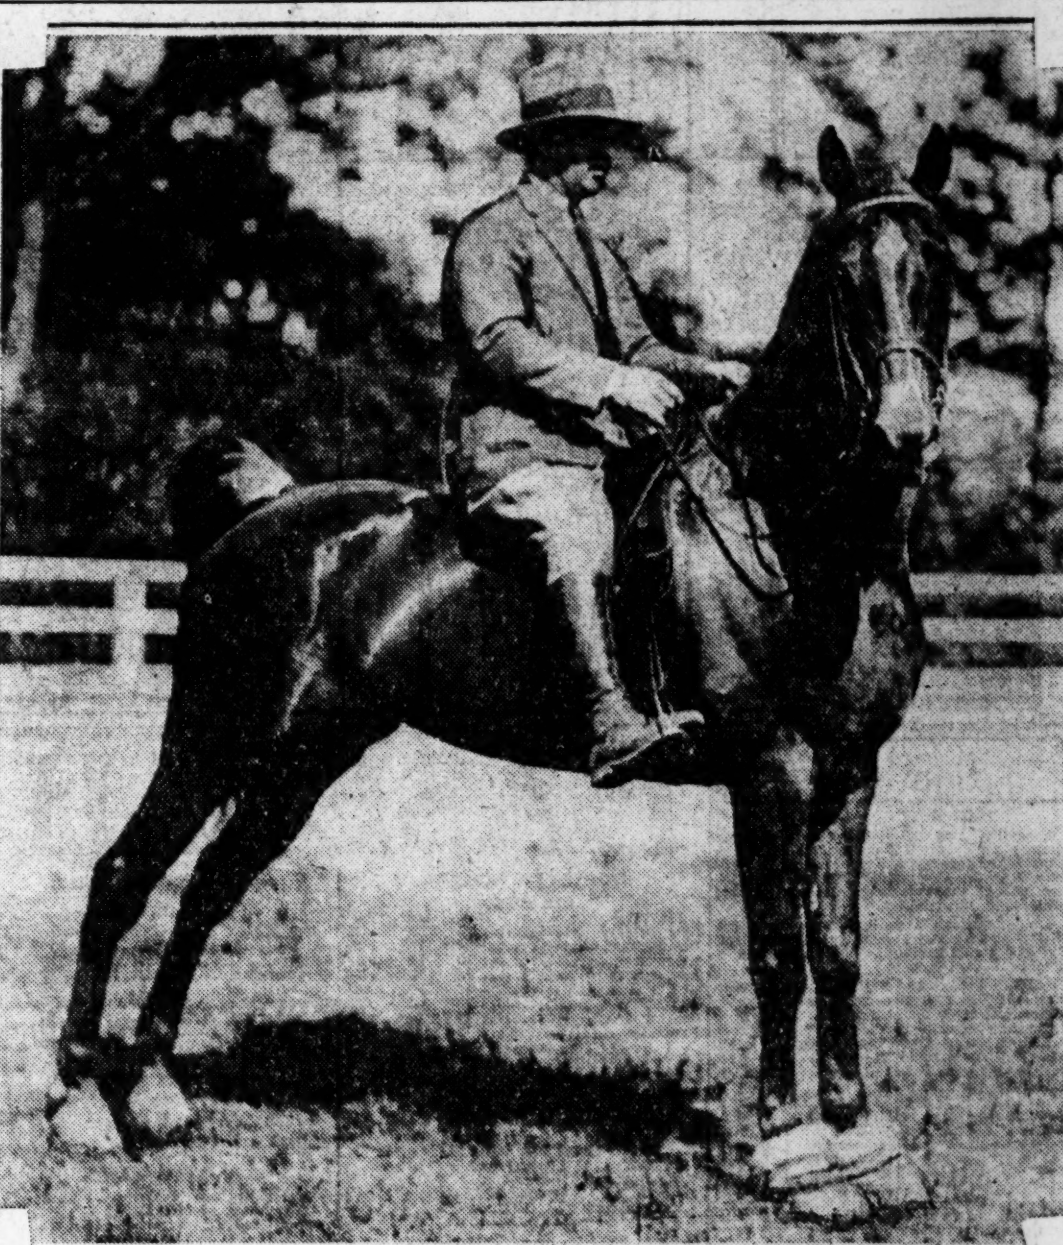

Unchanged.

Until 1927 George Stallings' record of four straight world's series victories stood unchanged. In 1914 the Braves won four in a row from the Athletics.

Tough Breaks.

Ad Liska, rated one of the best right-handed pitchers in the majors, his first year up, lost three games by the margin of a run, one of which was a two-hit pitching performance.

U.S. Davis Cup Team Leads Japan by 1-0

Johnny Hennessey Defeats Abe in Hard-Fought Match Played Before Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

Chey Chase, Md., May 23.—(United Press)—Playing a brand of tennis worthy of older and more experienced campaigners, John Hennessey, of the United States team today in American zone semi-finals of the Davis cup matches.

Lanky Hennessey defeated Tamio Abe of the Japanese team three sets out of four, 8-6, 6-1, 3-6 and 6-1. Van Ryn led Captain Yoshio Ohta two sets to one, when the finish of the match was postponed until tomorrow, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2. Van Ryn also had four games against Abe's two in a fourth uncompleted set.

The first Davis cup matches ever played near Washington and the perfect tennis weather attracted a large gallery in which Mrs. Hoover, with an escort of uniformed White House aides, was conspicuous. She sat through the entire four hours of play, apparently engrossed in the game.

AMERICANS EXTENDED.
Although the scores piled up, Hennessey and Van Ryn bore out the predictions of tennis fans that the American team would enter the zone finals against Cuba, both of the youthful stars trying to fill shoes of Francis Hunter and William Tilden, who are now in France, were forced to extend themselves to come off so well.

Hennessey was the aggressor throughout the first match but Abe played a consistently strong defensive game, rallying after two defeats to take the third set. He was unable to keep the pace, however, and took a bad beating in the last set.

The slapping and reckless tactics of Van Ryn and Ohta pleased the gallery after the careful playing of the opening match. Ohta remained almost constantly at the base line driving deep into Van Ryn's court while the American youth frequently rushed the net to volley his opponent's shots. He brought the gallery to its feet several times with almost impossible returns.

PLAY TODAY.
The Van Ryn-Ohta match will be completed tomorrow before the doubles play and Saturday the singles pairings will be reversed. Ohta meeting Hennessey and Van Ryn playing Abe.

This is the first match of the Japanese team, which drew a bye in the opening round. The American team has already defeated Canada and Cuba eliminated Mexico. There were only the four entrants in the American zone. The 24 contenders in the European zone have been reduced to eight by elimination matches.

Plans Title Series For College Champs

Chicago, May 23.—Ernest R. Cozens, graduate manager of the University of Pennsylvania, who coaches the nine and heads the recently formed Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League, will endeavor to arrange a game between the eastern champions and the Western conference titleholders next year.

Heads V. M. I. Nine.

Lexington, Va., May 23.—(AP)—John Bigger, of Wichita Falls, Texas, was elected captain of the Virginia Military Institute baseball team for next year, and John P. Read, Lynchburg, Va., was elected to head the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League.

Tough Breaks.

Ad Liska, rated one of the best right-handed pitchers in the majors, his first year up, lost three games by the margin of a run, one of which was a two-hit pitching performance.

CRACKERS WAIT ON DECISION BY TECH STAR

Milwaukee Slugger Turned Back by Vols But Holds Out.

By Ralph McGill.
Wilbur Good, Cracker manager, may make a trip to Traverse City, Michigan, in an effort to obtain the services of Bunny Brief, Milwaukee hold-out, in the event Bob Parham, Tech outfielder, does not sign a contract, it was indicated last night by R. J. Spiller, president of the Atlanta baseball club.

"I am waiting on Parham to do it," said the Cracker president. "If he decides to I believe Wilbur Good can persuade Bunny Brief to sign. They are old friends."

The Cracker president indicated that if necessary Good might make the long hop to Michigan to see Brief. Clarence Rowland, the Nashville manager, made a similar one some time ago. It was unsuccessful.

On Thursday morning the Constitution announced that the Crackers had reopened negotiations with Nashville and Milwaukee regarding Bunny Brief, who for 19 years has hit better than .300.

BRIEF SAYS "NO."
On Thursday afternoon the Constitution obtained exclusive statements from Anthony (Bunny) Brief and from Jack Whaley, president of the Nashville club.

Brief, who held out and refused to report to the Vols, declared he would play for no club this year. He was asked if he would report to Atlanta in case his contract was transferred and replied, "Not this year. I do not intend to play for any club this season."

Jack Whaley, president of the Vols and one of the men who refused to permit any other club to obtain the contract early in the season when Brewer refused to report to Nashville, said he had no objection.

"Atlanta or any other club may deal for Bunny Brief," said Jack Whaley. "He has been turned back to the Milwaukee club. We are not interested in him beyond obtaining our part of the refund. He was obtained in a trade which brought Sanders, Adams and Gerber to the club. We are through with Brief."

Clarence Rowland, the Nashville skipper, blockaded the time when the Crackers made an offer. He finally decided that Brief, an old-timer, could not get in shape even if he reported and therefore turned him back.

Brief, however, has been playing with a Miami club in Florida, where he is operating a filling station, and is in fair shape. He could get in condition in a couple of weeks and be ready for Southern league play.

Brief and Wilbur Good became friends when Good was manager of the Kansas City Blues. He told Good at the time of the winter meeting that he would play for him if he could make the deal. This decision was in favor of the Cracker manager but was later repudiated and Brief sold to Nashville. The slugger refused to report.

PARHAM FAVORABLE.
Bob Parham, who is a senior at Georgia Tech, will complete his examinations today. He is scheduled to appear at a conference with President Spiller on Saturday. It is possible, but unlikely, that they will meet tomorrow.

Parham was made an offer some time ago by Cleveland but the Cracker offer is the better one. It is thought that if Parham decides in favor of baseball he will sign with the Atlanta club.

President Spiller is inclined to let the Brief-Spiller deal in the event Parham signs. It will probably be temporary. Brief is still good for two or three years. He is a hitting machine. The Crackers would like to sign him.

If he remains adamant in his decision not to play ball this season the Crackers will attempt to sign him for next year.

BRIEF INDEPENDENT.
Brief is quite popular in Traverse City and this popularity was cashed in by the establishment of a filling station and the election of Brief as vice-president of the company. This, and the fact that he and his brother own rich farms, enabled him to adopt an independent attitude toward the baseball business.

Brief, however, is a baseball addict. He would prefer to play ball. If Parham does not sign it would be a smart move for Good to make the trip north. He would have more than ordinary influence with the big slugger. There will be no decision as to Good making the trip until after Parham has made his decision.

President Spiller mentioned it merely as a possibility in the event the Tech outfielder decides against baseball as a career.

As announced Thursday morning in the Constitution, Frankie Zoeller was returned to the club should the Parham and Brief deal fall. Zoeller went unclaimed. He will work out until his ankle heals. If he is hitting he will be put back in the lineup.

Hole-in-One Made By 'Duck' Wright

Albany, May 23.—(AP)—Wendell (Duck) Wright is latest local contribution to the Hole-in-One Club, scoring his "dodo" on hole 13 of the Radium Springs course.

Mr. Wright was playing a foursome with E. A. Barnett, Broadus Martin and Doug Roden. Number 13 is the shortest hole in the course, approximately 150 yards. He used a maulie niblick to accomplish the feat.

This is the second hole-in-one scored on hole 13 and the first of this season. Sid Good cupped one at the same hole last season in a single stroke from the tee.

More Than 250 Entries Expected for Horse Show Saturday

Polo Pony Class Creates Interest

McPherson and Horse Guard Teams To Show Strings—Ticket Sales Reported Heavy.

One day is left for entrants in the show to be held Saturday afternoon by the Atlanta Horse Show Association to prepare their mounts for the competitive classes, of which there will be 16.

FRENCH RIVALS IN U. S. RACE

Indianapolis Classic Attracts Leading Auto Racers of World.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 23.—An unofficial European Grand Prix will be a race within the race at the 17th annual running of the international 500-mile automobile contest at the Indianapolis motor speedway May 30.

Europe's champion driver and his outstanding rival are entered. Europe's champion car and its most persistent mechanical foe are in the competition.

Louis Chiron, a Frenchman and champion of France, Italy, Spain—in fact all Europe—in 1928, is here with the French Delage, which speeded its way to a championship of Europe along with Chiron last year.

Gianfranco Comotti, Italian, Chiron's youthful rival, will be at the wheel of a French-built Talbot, designed by an Italian engineer, Bertoni. It was the Talbot that Delage had to de throne to become the leading race concoction of all Europe.

Hence the dog fight of the European racing hordes in the international contest over the bricks of the historic Indianapolis two and one-half mile course. For European speed fans, the international aspect of the Indianapolis classic pales into naught.

They will be watching the duel of their outstanding speedsters and cars on a neutral track. Whether or not Chiron or Comotti can defeat the American speedsters is a minor issue. The burning question is which one of these drivers can finish ahead of the other.

In all of the international competition on the Indianapolis track, this is the first time that such a situation has arisen. Usually Europe sends her teams to America with the sole idea of lifting the speed laurels from the American drivers. The foreigners themselves, no matter what their nationality, combine with a unity of effort to accomplish this aim.

But this year the plan of the Talbots and Delages appears to be to defeat each other first and the Yankees afterward. It is almost assured that both Comotti and Chiron will attempt to leap to the front at the very start of the race, hoping that in leading the other they will be able to keep ahead of the American drivers.

There is exceptionally keen rivalry between Chiron and Comotti as well as between Delage and Talbot. Chiron and Comotti were to have tested each others mettle at Monza speedway, Turin, Italy, in the Italian Grand Prix last September.

This show, which will be the first to be given by the association since it originated some two months, gives promise of being one of the best ever held in Atlanta. Certainly it will be one of the largest, for there are upwards of 250 entries.

POLO PONIES ENTERED.

Vieing with the ever-popular jumping classes for honors Saturday afternoon will be the polo pony class, which has attracted a large entry list. Practically all of these entries are coming from the Governor's Horse Guards and Fort McPherson polo strings.

A well trained polo pony is beautiful to watch in action and Saturday they will be called on to perform every trick they know, breaking from a dead standstill into a stiff center, bearing alternately to right and left, quick stops and turns. Several of the officers at McPherson have excellent mounts that will be entered and there will be many from the Horse Guards.

Major Gus Tolson, who plays with McPherson, will show his entire string of ponies.

Another interesting class is booked towards the last of the program when enlisted men of the regular army and national guard show their mounts. Requirements in this call for the mount to be shown at the walk, trot and canter on both hands and to take a jump not over three feet in height.

WORKMEN BUSY.

Workmen were busy Thursday afternoon at Piedmont park putting up the boxes and grandstand for the show and arrangements are being made to handle a large crowd. Tickets for the show are on sale at Penelope Penn's, Rich's, and at Trammell Scott's on North Broad street.

The ticket sale has been very brisk and officials of the association are confident that Saturday's show will be well attended and a complete success.

Ticket for the horse show Saturday at Piedmont park are being sold by a committee from the Young Matrons' circle for the Tallulah Falls school. Mrs. Eugene Harrington is chairman of the corps.

Fairmont Opens Meeting Today

Collinsville, Ill., May 23.—(AP)—More than 500 horses stomped and whinnied in stalls at the Fairmont Jockey Club tonight, awaiting the opening Saturday of the 37-day spring meeting.

Clyde Van Dusen, Naishpur and Pancho, who finished in the order named in the Kentucky Derby, have been nominated for the $25,000 Fairmont Derby, June 1. Thirty eligibles already were on hand for the $5,000 Collinsville handicap, feature of Saturday's races.

There is a big difference between mental rhythm and physical rhythm, but there is no reason why both shouldn't add something to the general scheme of life.

THE HOME ADVANTAGE.

It might be admitted that Miss Joyce Wethered is the best woman golf player in the world. But the testimony would be much more complete if she could carry the war into the enemy's country as well.

Miss Wethered has beaten Miss Collett twice, but each victory has been won on British soil. This makes a big difference in golf. The American homebred team crushed the British at Worcester two years ago.

Back home again, the British won. Lord Northcliffe once said that the home advantage was so great that he was doubtful of the wisdom of attempting international golf, especially in match play.

The home advantage is undoubtedly heavy. It isn't crushing, but it is an important factor. Not so much to some one like Hagen, who has been across often enough to be at home in British winds and British rains.

British golfers are at the same disadvantage over here during the heat of the summer season.

It is quite possible that Miss Wethered could have beaten Miss Collett as the latter played at Hot Springs last fall in the final round against Miss Van Wie.

It would be the final test if Miss Wethered, a marvelous golfer, could visit the United States and still continue her winning ways. She has shown that she is not only a star mechanical player, but also a fine uphill fighter, with a cool head and a stout heart. She has yet to show that she can come to an entirely different scene and overcome the handicap that will await her.

Big 10 Trackmen Compete Today

Chicago, May 23.—(AP)—With at least three schools' records' chances of ending the 11-year reign of Illinois and Michigan in big track, preliminaries in the twenty-ninth renewal of the annual Western conference championships will be held tomorrow at Dyche stadium, Northwestern university.

Illinois is favored to repeat its triumph of the last two years, and Michigan is ranked close behind, but Iowa, Ohio State and Chicago have earned consideration by performances in spring events.

Michigan and Illinois each have won the outdoor title 10 times since the first meeting in 1901, and have won the championships of the last 11 years between them. During the latter period the Illinois have taken six titles and five have been carried back to Ann Arbor, Mich.

Chicago has finished at the top of the heap three times in the history of the meet, and was the last school to conquer before the Illinois-Michigan domination set in. The Maroons won their last track championship in 1917. Wisconsin has taken two titles, Missouri one, California one, and Stanford and Notre Dame tied for one.

This year's event has drawn the largest entry list since it was restricted to Big Ten schools in 1926, with 325 stars entered.

Coaches will meet tomorrow morning to arrange for heats and other details in connection with running off of 11 events in which qualification tests are to be held.

Two Veterans.

Louisville has two of baseball's veteran pitchers in Ben Tincup and Nick Cullop, still regulars.

Burkett on Coast.

Howard Burkett, son of Jesse Burkett, is playing with the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast league.

Better on Road.

The Baltimore Orioles hit better on the road than they did in their first long star at home.

Murderer's Row Keeps Cubs Up in National League Race

Here are four reason why the Cubs have been up in the thick of the fight in the National league since the season started. One of them, Kiki Cuyler, was in the Southern league a few years ago with the Nashville club. From left to right, Kiki Cuyler, Rogers Hornsby, Hack Wilson and Riggs Stephenson. This lineup is enough to cause a headache for any opposing pitcher.

Grey Sox Beat Evansville, 2-1

With Lefty Williams in rare form, the Atlanta Grey Sox took the first of a three-game series from the Reichert Giants of Evansville, Ind., at Spillers field Thursday afternoon.

Williams won his own game in the fifth with a timely single scoring two men. Cotton had a perfect day at the bat with three hits in as many times at the bat.

The Grey Sox showed the fans that they have a baseball team and will be well in the front when the season closes. The Giants, not to be outdone, will come back strong today and will fight to regain their leadership they lost Thursday.

Fennar, formerly of the Black Barons, will do the mound work for the Giants while the Grey Sox have not named their hurler. Wiggins, the Sox star third baseman, will appear today and his work in the field and with the stick will give the visitors trouble.

The game is slated to start at 3:30 o'clock and record crowds are looked for. Special seats are reserved for white fans.

ANOTHER SIDE OF SPORT

"It is difficult to get away from the idea," says an exchange, "that, after all, victory is the main idea in sport, almost all of it, when the game is fairly played."

Not quite all of it. In line with those who like fine art or beauty in any form of existence, there is also a certain beauty of action, of form and style, that millions have appreciated.

In baseball who can forget Johnny Kling back of the bat; Walter Johnson pitching; the play of Hal Chase at first and Larry Lajoie at second; Speaker running down an outfield fly?

Red Grange carrying a football through a broken field; Bobby Jones playing almost any type of shot, especially a long brassie up to a far-away green; the Dempsey of Toledo charging in; Milburn and Hitchcock hitting at full gallop; Helen Meany or Pele Des Jardins in mid-air on a high diver; Johnny Weismuller or Martha Norelius in the water; Tilden serving or covering a court just a few years back; Man-o-War in action from barrier to wire?

Sport happens to be full of things apart from victory, which is always important. Important, but far from being the entire story.

There is Cagle threatening a run or a pass; a remembered vision of the Stanford team in action; the Olympic crews of Yale and California, 1924 and 1928.

They write their lyrics on the air in the way of form and style and grace. They may flash and disappear in the action of a moment or an hour. But they leave a memory that lasts.

There is more to Babe Ruth's hitting than his mere physical power. There is a smoothness and a beat that is worth watching.

There may be a big difference between mental rhythm and physical rhythm, but there is no reason why both shouldn't add something to the general scheme of life.

THE HOME ADVANTAGE.

It might be admitted that Miss Joyce Wethered is the best woman golf player in the world. But the testimony would be much more complete if she could carry the war into the enemy's country as well.

Tony Fuente Shows Speed in Gymnasium

Opponent of Frankie Wine Training for Outdoor Bouts Tuesday.

Out of the young army of heavyweights who battled under Florida skies in the preliminaries the night Jack Sharkey nosed out Young Stribling, one stood out as a fan-fighter of the staunchest fiber. He was Tony Fuente, the sad-eyed Mexican.

Tony started hammering on the body of Spike Webb, a handsome young heavyweight prospect, and Spike started hammering on the jaw of Tony.

The hammering continued for a few rounds and finally Spike went down for keeps before the body attack of the Mexican. On the strength of his showing in keeping the crowd whooping before the Battle of the Palms, Fuente was signed by Max Abelson as one of the principals in his first open air boxing card at Spiller field next Tuesday night.

Fuente has been boxing here in the Forsyth street gym for several days and seems to be in even better condition than he was when he worked as sparring partner for Young Stribling. His footwork has improved, those who saw him fight in Miami say, and he is tipped as the coming sensation of the show Tuesday night.

Fuente fights Frankie Wine in a 10-round bout on the Abelson card. Frankie Wine is a young heavy who hopes to get a shot at Madison Square Garden soon. Wine is billed as the Montana Blacksmith.

He defeated Johnny Squires in Johannesburg, South Africa, twice. He beat K. O. Christner and forced Young Stribling to the limit at Grand Rapids recently.

The other 10-round bout brings together Battling Finch, the Georgia heavyweight, who has beaten Frankie Murphy, K. O. Duggan and Jack League, and Big Boy Blackstock, of Atlanta.

Well Matched.

The Western league clubs started the season well matched. At one period of the race four clubs were tied for second division berths, each having won nine and lost eleven.

Twins Leave U. S. To Swim Channel

New York, May 23.—(AP)—Bernice and Phillip Zittenfeld, 15-year-old twins, who weigh 165 pounds apiece, sailed on the Rochambeau today to swim the English channel. They won't come back until they've accomplished it, said their mother, Mrs. Teddy Zittenfeld, who accompanied.

CHANGES ARE URGED IN ATLANTA AIRPORT

William F. Centner, U. S. Expert, Submits Report of Candler Field Survey.

Declaring that Atlanta's geographic location and its importance as a business center make it a natural airport, William F. Centner, U. S. expert, submitted a report of his survey of Candler field to Mayor J. N. Ragsdale in which he urged establishment of a class "A-1-A" landing field.

The condition of the field at this time is dangerous and the fact that runways are short and that there is a ridge running almost through the center of the airport, the report points out.

One of the prime recommendations is that an airport expert be employed to survey the field and segregate various activities in order to utilize the field to the maximum degree.

Since Mr. Centner's survey, however, George H. Prudden, vice president of the Atlanta Airport Corporation and formerly connected with large aviation developments in Detroit and California, and Judge Marshall, of the office of Chief of Construction, Clark Donaldson, have made such an allocation of the terrain of the field.

Recommendations which Mr. Centner made follow:

"There are at present four air mail lines converging at Candler field and the transport, school and other commercial activities are increasing daily. The city's geographic position, as well as its industrial importance in the south, not to exclude the fact that it is the state capital, will naturally make it an air center and some definite airport development program should, therefore, be inaugurated immediately to properly accommodate this growing business. Started originally as an experiment, this field has become a permanent institution and its full possibilities should therefore be studied. The mushroom growth which has been tolerated up to this time should be replaced with a comprehensive planning program.

"The present layout is entirely inadequate even for present-day needs and is also considered unsafe. It is doubtful whether a number 4 rating could be given to the field as it is, rough, rolling terrain, existing everywhere as observed from the air, is recognized, and fully appreciated; yet such a situation makes it imperative to develop and bring out the possibilities.

ties and efficiency of the field to the fullest extent. This will mean that some very extensive and probably costly, conditioning of land which is now regarded as unusable, will have to be accomplished. It can be seen in a way out of this, however, if class 1 requirements are to be met and the constantly increasing business at the port centers fairly justify a No. 1 field at least.

Specialist Needed.
"In view of the fact that a difficult conditioning and treatment problem is apparent, it would be advisable for the city to recognize this work as something that can best be handled by a specialist in airport engineering."

"It is therefore recommended that a competent airport engineering organization be immediately employed to make a complete topographic survey of the entire 320 acres, prepare a plan which will comprehend the probable activities and allocating a definite location best suited to the different units to be accommodated and render an estimate of the total cost of such an undertaking. Such preliminary investigation and report should anticipate an A-1-A rating and nothing should be tolerated which will interfere with such a plan. The airport rating regulations and other department of commerce bulletins on airport design and construction should therefore be used as a guide. If a definite, comprehensive program is established, necessary financing can be arranged and development advanced according to availability of funds or operation requirements."

GEORGIA DELEGATION SEEKS NEW AIRWAY

Washington, D. C., May 23.—(Special.)—A group of Georgians appeared today before the inter-department committee on airways and urged the establishment of an airway from Richmond or Greensboro to Jacksonville, via Winston-Salem, High Point, Raleigh, Columbia, Augusta, Savannah and Charleston.

Senators Harris and George, of Georgia; Congressmen Vinson and Edwards, of Georgia; and Doughton, of North Carolina, and Fulmer, of South Carolina, all addressed the committee in support of the proposed route. There were about 50 persons present at the hearing.

Every city on the proposed route has an up-to-date landing field or constant airway of a suitable landing field.

It is proposed to connect the new airway with the Atlanta-New York route at either Richmond or Greensboro and with the Atlanta-Miami route to Jacksonville.

Augusta was represented at the hearing by Congressman Vinson, J. S. Moody, secretary of the Augusta Chamber of Commerce; Thomas J. Hamilton, editor of the Augusta Chronicle; Henry G. Howard, member of the city council, and Frank E. White, assistant city engineer.

Congressmen Edwards and Byron S. Smith represented the city of Savannah, and Senator George and Senator W. J. Harris spoke in behalf of both Georgia cities and the section adjacent which would be served by the air mail route. It will be several days before the committee reaches a decision. The committee is composed of Mr. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general; Chase C. Gove, deputy second assistant postmaster general; E. B. Wadsworth, superintendent of air mail service for the post office department, and William P. McCracken, secretary of commerce for aeronautics; F. C. Hinesburg, chief airways division, and Harry H. Blee, chief airports division, for the department of commerce.

HOUSTON CHOSEN STANDARD STEEL WORKS PRESIDENT

Philadelphia, May 23.—(AP)—George H. Houston, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, today was elected president of the Standard Steel Works, a subsidiary of the Baldwin Corporation. He succeeds Samuel M. Vaulcain, who was made chairman of the board. Houston was also elected director of the Standard Steel Works, and John P. Sykes was named vice president.

COFFEE POT FOUND

Heirloom Discovered in House by City Detective.

A heavy silver-plated coffee pot, probably an heirloom, was found Thursday afternoon by City Detective W. B. Martin in a house in the rear of a Police Avenue address. Engraved on the pot, which is 12 inches tall, is "Presented to Libbie Carleton by her Griggsville friends."

The pot bears no date and detectives are anxious to find its owners.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis held a meeting today at Atlanta Thursday when, as a passenger, he landed at Candler Field in a Voight Corsair for refueling. Secretary Davis was being flown from Spartanburg, S. C., to Pensacola, Fla. He had been scheduled to stop in Atlanta Wednesday, en route by airplane from New Orleans to Spartanburg, but made the hop direct, stopping only at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala., where he attended a meeting of railway firemen and engineers at Houston, Texas. Secretary Davis was furnished a plane by Texas Air Transport for the flight to the South Carolina city.

Councilman Wiley L. Moore, of the seventh ward, and president of the Oxford Oil Company, Thursday morning, he attended to it and then decided to go to the airport to see the plane. He was there before noon and then took off for Atlanta. Thursday afternoon he was back at his desk, an aviation enthusiast. The journey was made in the Stinson-Detroler monoplane, piloted by Paul L. Foster.

In addition to a number of Atlanta aviation enthusiasts, which already had stated their intention of sending planes to the dedication of the Gainesville airport, to place Saturday, Interstate Airlines, Inc. operators of the Atlanta-Chicago air mail route, announced through J. B. Price, division

PEACE CONFERENCE BROUGHT TO CLOSE

The second Georgia conference on the cause and cure of war was brought to a close Thursday night with an address by James G. McDonald, president of the Foreign Policy Association, of New York, on "The Pan-American Situation," following a full day's program consisting of a business session, a luncheon, and an additional session following this and a mass meeting Thursday night.

The first day of the conference, which was held at the Atlanta Hotel, was devoted to the Georgia League of Women Voters, re-elected chairman of the organization at the morning session. Other officers are: Mrs. R. L. Miller, of Waynesboro, representing the W. C. T. U., vice chairman; Mrs. Charles Hinton, of Macon, representing the Women's Club; Society, secretary, and Mrs. John Mullin, treasurer.

Speakers on the day's program included W. L. Ruggles, Jr., who spoke of the work of the Junior Red Cross, showing how the children in the schools of America have contributed to the promotion of peace. He also spoke of the work of the Junior Red Cross, showing how the children in the schools of America have contributed to the promotion of peace.

The afternoon session was featured by an international conversation on "Disarmament," in which Mr. McDonald, president of the Foreign Policy Association, of New York, spoke of the work of the Junior Red Cross, showing how the children in the schools of America have contributed to the promotion of peace.

LAST RITES SATURDAY FOR VASSER WOOLLEY

Final Services Will Be Held at Church Near Lithonia.

Funeral services for Vasser Woolley, Sr., 67, prominent Atlanta who died Wednesday afternoon at his home, 1008 Spring street, will be held at 11 o'clock Saturday morning from the Philadelphia Baptist church near Lithonia. The Rev. Wallace Rogers, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church, will officiate and interment will be in the cemetery.

Mr. Woolley was a native of Selma, Ala., but moved to Atlanta when only a small child and had made this city his home practically all his life. He was a graduate from Emory university and at the time of his death was treasurer of the Seelye-Woolley Company, chemists.

In the building of Atlanta, Mr. Woolley had a very prominent part, although he was never a member of the city's government. He gave many of his time in aiding the opening, grading and paving of the city's most prominent thoroughfares.

Many messages of sympathy have been received at the Woolley home. Included in these messages was one from Mayor J. N. Ragsdale expressing his regret at Mr. Woolley's death. The mayor wrote his daughter, Mrs. Mildred Seydel: "Permit me to express to you and members of your family my sincere sympathy in the passing of your father. I have watched for some years the unselfish interest he manifested in the development of his section of the city."

"Few citizens have contributed so liberally of their time and worked so unceasingly for the upbuilding of Atlanta. The results of his labors will continue to live on as the years go by."

Mrs. Laura Gaston Dies in Jackson After Long Illness

Jackson, Ga., May 23.—(Special.)—Mrs. Laura L. Gaston, 85, one of the county's most prominent and widely beloved women, died at her home near Jackson this morning, following an illness of two weeks.

She was born January 11, 1844 and spent her entire life in the county. She had been a member of the Methodist church for a long number of years and was widely beloved for her high quality of character and deeds of charity and kindness.

She was the widow of Matthew H. Gaston, who served four years in the Confederate army as a sergeant in Company L, Thirtieth Georgia regiment. She is survived by two sons, John M. Gaston, general manager of the Warner Bros. Amusement company, of Jackson, and J. O. Gaston, for 20 years Butts county commissioner and state senator from the twenty-sixth district in the 1927-28 session of the legislature; four grandchildren, Mrs. Henry Irby, of Atlanta; J. Ayon Gaston, of Orlando, Fla.; Homer Gaston, of Marietta, and C. B. Gaston, of Jackson.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed, pending the arrival of out-of-town relatives.

MRS. ROSENWALD, MAIL ORDER HEAD'S WIFE, PASSES AWAY

Chicago, May 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Julius Rosenberg, wife of the multimillionaire mail order house executive and philanthropist, died today at her home after an extended illness.

Mrs. Rosenberg had been in ill health most of the time since 1920 when she underwent two operations for stomach disorders. A year ago she was taken ill again but apparently had recovered until stricken a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Rosenberg, while not so widely known as her husband, quietly kept pace with him in his philanthropies. She devoted much of her time to charitable work and was a leader in Girl Scout activities.

She was married to Mr. Rosenberg in 1890, her maiden name being Augusta Nusbaum, of Chicago.
